New York-Chicago Air Liner Crashes At Bettis Field

Wet Field Causes Crack-Up As Ship Attempts To Land

Skids In Mud, Bounces And Turns Over, Wrecking Undercarriage

REPORT BRAKES FAIL TO WORK

Officials Of Air Transportation Company Begin Inquiry Into Crash

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 20.—Officials of the Transcontinental and Western Air Lines today began an investigation of the crash of the Chicago-New York plane at rain-soaked Bettis field last night in which six persons, including two pilots, were injured.

The plane zoomed in from the west during a blinding rainstorm. The pilots planned to "anchor" the plane for the night due to unfavoroble weather over the Alleghenies.

Ship Skids.

As it touched the earth at the boundary line of Bettis field, the big ship skidded, shot off the crown of a 25-foot embankment and, when it struck the ground again, nosed into the mud, wrecking the undercarriage and breaking the wings.

The injured were:

A. D. Smith, 44, Harrisburg, Pa., pilot; possible fracture of the skull and internal injuries.

Harry Downes, 26, Columbus, O., co-pilot; severe lacerations and bruises.

Fred Nelson, manager of the Harrisburg, Pa., airport; cuts and bruises.

Mrs. T. J. Russell, Newark, N. J.; fractured ribs and probable internal injuries.

Forrest Webster, 36, Milwaukee; facial lacerations.

R. W. Donahue, Columbus, O.; facial lacerations.

Mrs. Russell, Webster, Smith and Downes were detained at McKeesport hospital today.

Low visibility and the condition of the field, resembling a quagmire, were first assigned as causes of the accident, although it was reported the plane's brakes failed to work when the plane landed.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Caretakers, anxious in keeping the Pennsylvania railroad property in a natty appearance, mowed the grass at the west side depot, trimmed the artistic flower-formed keystone symbol.

A. M. O'Niell, Atlantic avenue, who has the lovely hedge mentioned in this column Tuesday, invites Pa Newc to step within the hedge the next time he is out that way and sit in the nice, comfortable chair he will find there and admire the other beauties of the garden. Of course Mr. O'Niell did not say so himself, but the garden within the hedge is in the loviest order and shows that a lot of care has been given it.

Race For State Commander Expected To Be Hot As Candidates Announce

(International News Service)

EASTON, Pa., Aug. 20.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot and the state government is criticized in the report of the committee on disabled soldiers and rehabilitation to be presented here during the day to the 13th annual session of the Department of Pennsylvania of the American Legion. A thousand Legionnaires were present for the formal opening of the three-day conclave this morning, when State Commander Charles I. Engard pounded the gavel opening the first session.

"We feel the United States government is doing much for Pennsylvania's ex-service men," reads the report of the Legion committee. "We wish we could say the same for our own state government. Sad to relate, however, every plan offered by the American Legion for the relief by the state of conditions of World War veterans has fallen by the wayside and rests in pigeonholes.

"The most glaring example of this was the failure of the governor to give any concrete evidence of support of the forestry rehabilitation school program," adds the report, al-

Dollar Oil Is Now In Sight

Four Large Oil Companies In Oklahoma Agree To Pay $1.00 Per Barrel

MURRAY-STERLING FORCE ACTION

(International News Service)

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug 20.—Dollar oil, the goal of Oklahoma's governor, W. H. Murray, appeared nearer today as refiners began to feel the pinch in their supplies caused by the closing of the rich oil regions in eastern Texas and in Oklahoma.

At Oklahoma City, Murray said that four large companies had offered to pay $1 a barrel for crude oil if the wells were reopened. Murray was of the opinion that a plan could be evolved under which the companies "can run day and night if they want."

Protests from Texas interests bore testimony to the effectiveness of the martial law declared by Governor Ross Sterling. No oil poured forth from any of the 1,600 eastern wells that a weeks ago were gurgling out more than 750,000 barrels daily. A state legislator, Bailey Hardy, threatened impeachment proceedings unless the governor explained his actions legally.

Weekly Pass Plan For Street Cars Starts August 30

Street Railway Officials Announce Approval Of Public Service Commission

PASSES TO BE TRANSFERRABLE

Weekly street car passes will go into effect in New Castle starting Sunday, August 30th, according to an announcement made today by the New Castle Electric Street Railway officials. This carries out the promise of the company to city council which recently asked the company to install the weekly pass system. The price has been set at one dollar.

Permission of the Public Service Commission to introduce the pass has been escured, the passes themselves have been ordered and they will go on sale on the cars of the city and at the company's ticket office Thursday, August 27, and their use by the car riders will begin the following Sunday.

The use of the weekly pass in no way affects the other rates of fare on the lines. It is an additional form of fare and affords the rider the most economical riding the city railway industry has ever devised.

Each week the passes will go on sale on the cars and at the ticket office on Thursday. The use of each pass will begin on Sunday, all passes expiring at midnight Saturday.

Lower Rate Here

The passes will be similar to those that have been used for several years in Pittsburgh, Youngstown and many other cities of the country, only here they will be sold for a lower rate than usually prevails. Here the price of the pass will be one dollar. This will entitle the bearer to ride as many times within the week as he may choose within the city fare zone. In other cities where such passes have been used, passholders have ridden twenty, thirty, or more times within the

WILL ROGERS says:

(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 20. — Every day brings new schemes in the papers for relief. The Russians got a five-year plan. Maybe it's terrible, but they got one. We been two years trying to get a plan.

The latest came from Mr. McKelvie of the north and Gov. Long of the south. Neither one helps the corn raiser or the city fellow.

One wants to give all the surplus wheat to the unemployed (that has been suggested more times than there is bushels). Long wants to plant no cotton next year. Both good schemes, but neither don't put anybody to work, so we are still in the market for a plan.

We will just about have to save ourselves accidentally, that's the way we stumbled on prosperity.

Yours,

Will Rogers

Jap Beetle Squad Here To Observe Actions Of Pest

Group Of Four Federal Men Arrive In City Wednesday To Start Work Here

CITIZENS ASKED TO AID WORKERS

Men May Have To Enter Yards But Will Not Molest Plants Or Property

Scouting operations for the Japanese beetle have been started in the city officially with the arrival here yesterday of a foreman and three scouts from the United States Department of Agriculture.

The party is comprised of S. E. Herrold, foreman; L. M. Capenhafer, F. E. Condey and C. T. Hall.

These government representatives will be engaged in making observations to determine Japanese beetle infestations in the city. In order to determine the extent of spread of the beetle scouts are assigned to the areas of likely infestation each summer.

Examine Plants

These men examine the preferred food plants of the beetle or other foliage on which adult beeties are likely to be found. To do this it is necessary to enter the yards of residences and other premises in which plants may be found. The scouts are in uniform and are furnished with indentification cards which will be exhibited upon request. The scouts will not molest any plants or property on the premises and will make their survey with as little inconvenience to the property owners as possible. The activities of the scouts were reported to the local police department before scouting activities began, in order that the cooperation of the police could be secured in explaining any complaints or inquiries on the part of residents whose grounds have been entered by the scouts.

The limited time assigned to the scouting activities in New Castle does not permit them to give detailed information about the Japanese beetle work, nor to identify or suggest control measures for plant diseases or insect pests other than the Japanese beetle. Detailed information concerning any phase of the Japanese beetle work may be obtained by addressing the United States Department of Agriculture, 22 Elizabeth street, South Norwalk, Connecticut. Inquiries concerning other insect pests or plant diseases should be addressed to the State Agriculture Experiment Station, or the State Department of Agriculture of this State. The scouts have requested the cooperation of the residents of New Castle, in facilitating their work as much as possible.

Pretty Insect

The Japanese beetle is a member of the same group of insects as the Colorado potato beetle, and resembles the latter somewhat in size. The adult Japanese beetle, however, is a beautiful and brightly colored insect. It is bright metalic green, except the greater part of the wing covers, which are coppery brown. Five white spots on either side of

Loyalist Troops Use World War Methods With Modern Improvements

By CHARLES G. CANNF
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HAVANA, Aug. 20.— The little seaport town of Gibara, on the north coast of the Province of Oriente, was in ruins today as the smoke of the greatest battle fought on Cuban soil since the Spanish-American War, cleared away.

According to an official communique, the remnant of the filibustering expedition, consisting chiefly of American Negroes, which landed from a German and Norwegian steamer Monday, has been trapped in a railway tunnel, with siege and naval guns trained on both ends.

Rebel Casualties 500

Havana waited breathlessly today for details of the three-day battle and confirmation of reports placing rebel casualties as high as 500 and stating that the German Steamer Frederick William II, said to have brought part of the rebel expedition from Miami, Fla., had been sunk by airplanes.

A strict government censorship had kept news of the battle from reaching Havana till last night when General Alberto Herrera, chief of the army general staff, decided to permit publicatioin of news from the front.

World War methods, with improvements, were used in battle at Gibara. As soon as news of the landing of the expedition reached

"Thin Red Line Of Heroes" Responds To "Assembly" Again At Roundhead Reunion

Eight Feeble Veterans Only Physical Representation Of Glorious Old Regiment Of 2,014 Men—Live Again In Pridеful Reminiscence The Stirring Days Of Manassas, Antietam And Spottsylvania—Children, Grandchildren And Friends Present In Old White Hall To Assist In Celebration—Officers Of Association Re-elected For Another Year. Letters Read From Many Members Too Infirm To Be Present.

By PAUL SAFFRON

"Every officer that came back with the regiment had started out as a private..."

With that fond recollection in mind a mere handful of eight aged men, survivors of the Roundhead regiment that boasted a roster of 2,014 strong during the period of the Civil War were guests at the 66th. annual reunion of the Society of the Roundheads held yesterday in Central Presbyterian Church.

In Old White Hall

It was in the same building, then known as White Hall, that hundreds of volunteers from this district met 70 years ago to join the Union army and form the 100th. Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, more popularly known as the Roundhead regiment.

And in the reunion gathering of Roundhead veterans, their wives and also descendants of the famous regiment were four who were present in the same building that memorial day 70 years ago when the volunteers left New Castle in answer to President Lincoln's call for volunteers.

The four were James P. Sankey, Crafton, Pa., and A. R. Kerr, Mrs. Jacob Wallace and Mrs. M. K. McDowell, of New Castle. Mrs. McDowell, a girl of 14 stood wide-eyed in the crowd that packed old White Hall with volunteers and well wishers.

Although replete with a routine business session which included the re-election of the old officers for another year, the Roundheads' gathering was also filled with human interest. The surviving veterans, their families and descendants of the soldiers heard with great interest an address of Miss Gyla McDowell, Dean of Women and head of the English department of Geneva College who emphasized the importance of perpetuating the stirring annuals of the Roundheads.

The reunion banquet was opened with a prayer offered by Rev. Everett A. Campbell, pastor of the Gibson Heights U. P. Church, Youngstown.

Fred L. Rentz, Chairman

Fred L. Rentz, chairman of the reunion committee, gave an address of welcome to the gathering at the conclusion of the banquet, which was held in the church dining room. The speaker pointed out that the famed regiment had played a leading part in the history of the city and added that some of his life-long friends had been Roundheads.

Present at the reunion with their families and descendants of many deceased soldiers, were the following surviving members of the Roundhead regiment:

James P. Sankey, Crafton, Pa., Company K; Lemuel Harris, R. D. 2, New Castle, Company A; Philip Wagner, New Castle, Company H; Samuel Landis, Mercer, Pa., Company G; A. R. Kerr, New Castle, Company E; H. G. Sharp, New Wilmington, Company F; Rev. J. R. Rankin, Company F; J. Nessly Kirker, Zelienople, Pa., Company C.

Extra Session Is Opposed By Senator Watson

Predicts Local Organizations Will Be Able To Handle Relief Problems

OPPOSE DOLE FOR UNEMPLOYED

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Apparently reflecting the views of the Hoover administration, Senator Watson, Republican leader of the Senate, today announced his opposition to the calling of a special session of the new Congress and predicted local organizations would be able to meet all demands for unemployment relief next winter.

The Republican leader declared economic conditions were improving and that the needs for unemployment relief would not be as great in the coming winter as last year. He said he came to this conclusion on private reports, showing a sharp decrease in the cost of living over last year, improved conditions among farmers, and a perceptible increase in employment.

Reply To Pinchot

The Indiana Senator's statement was taken as a reply to the demand of Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, for a special session of Congress to authorize federal relief of unemployment. Pinchot made his demand on President Hoover, the White House merely acknowledging receipt of the letter and announcing the President did not see any necessity for a special session.

Pinchot rather jibed the President by pointing out that Mr. Hoover as a relief administrator in postwar days had asked Congress for federal funds to relieve human suffering in other nations. He added: "It would seem to be most opportune that you should do no less for our own needy at home."

Watson saw no necessity for extraordinary relief measures. He agreed with Senator Smoot (R) of Utah, that if local relief organizations failed to meet the unemployment requirements federal funds would have to be appropriated. He said no such emergency now existed.

Oppose Dole

"I am opposed to a federal dole or similar measures so long as we can avoid it," said Watson. "I think conditions will not be as bad this coming winter as they were last year. There is less unemployment than a year ago and there are indications more men and women will go back to steady work before the winter arrives. We had hundreds of thousands of farmers afflicted in the drought areas last year, while this year there is an abundance of crops everywhere.

"Private enterprises and local charitable organizations are preparing for next winter's relief measures. I think they will be able to meet all requirements. They did it last winter, and so far as I could learn not a single citizen starved or froze to death because of the lack of local aid."

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Foster, daughters Dolly and Mary Elizabeth, North Cedar street, left Wednesday for a visit at Ashtabula and Geneva-on-the-Lake, O.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Carbon, Sheridan avenue, have returned after a visit at Pittsburgh, Greensburg and Uniontown.

LEGION OPENS CONVENTION IN EASTON TODAY

though the entire plan was submitted to him and approved by him as practical within three weeks of the announcement of his candidacy."

Dr. Henry Pleasants of West Chester, committee chairman, wrote further: "It is possible the proper political pressure was not brought to bear on the powers at Harrisburg that the ex-service men of the state might get proper hospitalization facilities."

Large Registration.

The convention promises to be the most interesting and well attended of any of the Pennsylvania department. Delegates numbering approximately 1,050 representing the state membership of 73,049, the largest in the history of the state, had registered prior to the opening session this morning in the Seville theatre, the convention hall of the conclave.

Addresses of welcome were made by Mayor S. S. Horn of Easton, while Congressman William R. Coyle of Bethlehem, and George I. Proesl of DuBois, Pa., western vice commander, responded. In addition to the various committee reports which will occupy most of the day, addresses will be made by Gen. Frank T. Hines, federal administrator of veterans' affairs, and James F. Barton national adjutant. Former National Commander Hanford MacNider also had planned to address the delegates today, but was delayed. He will speak tomorrow.

40 and 8 Attend.

The American Legion's auxiliary, the "40 and 8", the play outfit of the veterans, and the "8 and 40", the women's secret society, also are holding their conventions in conjunction with the legion gathering. Engard also will preside over the "40 and 8", while Mrs. Thomas Meaney, Jr., of Philadelphia, department president, will direct the women's program.

Already many of the delegates have started campaigning for the man they wish to see elected staff commander when the nominations are thrown open tomorrow. Two men are now in the field—Proesl of DuBois and Thomas W. Bender of Lilly, Cambrai county, commander of the 20th district. Pittsburgh, Lancaster and Bradford are in the race for next year's meeting. Rev. Robert J. McFetridge of Philadelphia is a candidate for the post of department chaplain.

the abdomen and two white spots near the tip of the abdomen of the adult insect furnish distinct characteristics for the Japanese beetle's identification. Any specimens resembling this description observed by local residents should be collected and given to the scouts or mailed to the United States Department of Agriculture, 22 Elizabeth street, South Norwalk, Connecticut,, together with details as to the sender and the exact address where found.

The adult beetle is a voracious feeder, causing great damage to foliage and fruit. Among its preferred host plants are apple, peach, elm linden, willow, grape, rose, hollyhock, smartweed and sassafras. The grub, or overwintering stage of the beetle, cause considerable damage to lawns and sod land.

In addition to trap control measures and chemical treatment applied at points of isolated infestation, a strict Federal and State quarantine on the movement of nursery and ornamental stock, sand, soil, earth, peat, compost and manure from the infested areas is enforced throughout the year. Additional restrictions are placed on the movement, during the period June 15 to October 15, of farm products and cut flowers.

Road inspection posts are maintained on the principle roads leading from infested areas to prevent the illegal movement of quarantined plant material by truck or passenger vehicles. Transit inspectors are also stationed at transfer treminals to check the movement of uninspected quarantined articles via the United States Mails or by common carriers. An inspection service is provided whereby quarantined articles may be inspected and certified for movement from the infested areas.

Planes Bomb Town

Airplanes bombed the town, while artillery and the Patria raked it with shells. Infantry then rushed rebel barricades with bayonets, driving the expeditionary forces through the streets into the tunnel.

The Fortress of Vigia, which had been captured by the rebels, was completely wrecked.

According to the government report, President Machado's troops took 57 machine guns, a million rounds of ammunition and large numbers of bombs and small arms.

The Loyal forces consisted of three artillery regiments, six airplanes and the crack Cruiser Patria. Government casualties were placed at two dead and five wounded.

The Norwegian steamer, said to be the Isle, which helped bring the rebel expedition from the United States, was reported to have escaped. Later it was rumored that she had been captured while loading bananas at Cayo Mambi.

The number landing from the two ships was placed variously from 300 to 800. They were joined by rebel bands operating in the vicinity. The expedition was said to have been under the command of Carlos Nevia.

ADOPT NEW PLANS FOR STABILIZING OF COAL INDUSTRY

civic association to carry into effect the Wheeling plan which was given the conference's approval "subject to revision acceptable to operators, miners and public alike."

The Wheeling plan contemplates the formation of a new central competitive coal field, embracing the region represented by delegates to the conference, with the possible establishment of a coal commission composed of presidents of the three state universities as a controlling body under direction of the three state governors.

May Name Dictator

Eventual establishment of a dictator, with similar powers given to Judge Landis as head of organized baseball, also is contemplated with overproduction and abortive competitive eliminated through a prorata basis of production such as now obtains in the Pennsylvania Oil fields.

Governor Pinchot, in commending the delegates for their attempts to bring prosperity to the coal fields, said:

"Too much cold water has been thrown on operators' and miners' suggestions for stabilization of the coal industry. Your conference expresses a growing momentum behind the public demand that the coal industry begin to solve its problem. Consequently you should not be discouraged at the size of the task."

Governor White telepraphed regrets because of inability to attend the conference and said:

"I wish you every success in your attempt to solve this very important problem."

Operators May Live Up

Dr. H. J. Meagher, principal sponsor of the Wheeling plan, said it was based on a minimum wage scale of $5 a day for mine workers. When asked why leading coal producers were not represented at the meeting, Dr. Meager remarked:

"If President Hoover can't get the coal operators into a conference, how can you expect me to do so." He voiced the belief that various state legislatures would cooperate in enacting necessary measures to place the plan into effect and said he thought the leading operators, "with the exception of a few hard-boiled ones," would realize the merits of the plan.

left Paramaribo at 10:45 a. m., thrilled by the welcome we received here. Flags hung from almost every building of the city of 40,000 and practically all the inhabitants gave us a send-off.

On the way to the Island of Trinidad we passed over Georgetown, the last of the three European colonies established in South America. Passing over the Orinoco river our ship startled thousands of birds, flamingoes in their fright drawing streaks of scarlet against the deep green background of the forest.

Not long afterwards we flew over Trinidad's famous Lake of Asphalt, where the buccaneers of the Spanish Main were wont to caulk their vessels.

CHANGING ETHICS

IT IS said that civilization is artificial, that ethics are artificial, and that the conscience necessary to uphold the ethics on which civilization rests is artificial also. The charge of artificiality is based on the fact that civilization, ethics and conscience are not natural, were once non-existent and have all been created by man through a process of evolution.

Scientists say and history tends to prove that once it was natural for men to lie to each other, steal from one another and kill others without compunction. This state of affairs existed for century upon century until it gradually dawned upon humanity that in the game of survival of the fittest and might makes right everybody lost. It was then that the human mind hit upon ethics and conscience, the enforcement agent of ethics.

Ethics and conscience may have been born on the same day but it is evident to modernity, and also to antiquity, that conscience has not been depended upon as the sole enforcer of ethics. Ever since there have been ethics there have been those who have entertained the belief that the rod in some form or other is a more effective agency in the enforcement of ethics than conscience. This quite general belief has been responsible for the hickory stick, repressive laws and prisons.

What society is striving for is to make conscience universal so that posterity will have no need for the "rod." The respecter of ethics is not now in need of laws and those who do not respect ethics for their own sake are in need of conscience. The hypercritical should not obstruct the conscience missionary work by the unnecessary multiplication of the ethics posterity must observe.

KEEPING UP A NEIGHBORHOOD

Theoretically a man who owns property ought to have the right to do what he wants to with his own land. Yet practically the man who does just as he wishes with his own property may create serious damage to his neighbors. For instance, if a man who owns a home in a pretty residence neighborhood should put up an ugly chicken coop in a conspicuous position, the neighborhood is to some extent damaged. Real estate promoters often establish restrictions on the use of land which those purchasing consent to for the benefit of the neighborhood.

Some people may object to certain restrictions, on the ground that they interfere too far with private rights. Yet these conditions may make the land more attractive to others because they seem to make the property more secure against deterioration. The bulk of the residence property in American towns has probably been sold without such conditions. An unrestricted neighborhood must rely on the good sense of its residents to keep their property in good shape.

People ought to realize that if they make any addition that is inappropriate or ugly, or if they put up structures unsuited to the location, a damage is done not merely to their neighbors, but to themselves as well. The inexpensively built town may show so much refinement in its homes and the care given to them, that it looks more pleasing and livable than one in which the average cost of the dwellings was twice as much.

WAITING FOR HIGHER PRICES

The time to buy is when prices are low. Everyone says so. But not everyone acts on the rule. When prices slump markets stagnate. Buying is confined to the few, and these believe themselves unfortunates, who need goods so badly they cannot wait for lower prices. At the first sign of a rise buyers rush in. They do not care to pay the highest price for what they require. But with large numbers trying to beat the market, buying competition becomes keen and prices easily go up. Trying to buy at the bottom frequently results in people having to supply their wants at the top because they waited too long.

This common experience in business might reasonably induce a change of practice on the part of producers. Prices for a number of commodities have been declining for a considerable time. They have been gradually reduced in hopes that buying might be stimulated. These necessities are in good supply. The market has been seeking to find the price level at which buying would be resumed on a large scale. There is no sign that this will be found farther down. Statistics indicate that this condition has not made for bad business. On the whole, there is a heavy movement of goods. The law of supply and demand is operating perfectly.

According to natural law increased demand should precede advances in prices. Existing conditions do not favor a rush of buyers to stock up. Why should there be such? The answer is that in the long run a failing market favors the buyer. It is a reasonable conclusion that demand for commodities that do not now find ready sale because buyers are waiting for lower prices will be stimulated by nothing else than a rise in prices. But this remedy cannot be resorted to without market control, and there is no such control.

What One Man Thought and Wrote
La Rochefoucauld Was HE a Cynic?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

A man namd La Rochefoucauld lived in France three centruies ago and is remembered because he set down in crisp epigrams his melancholy opinion of human nature.

He was a prince and he devoted the first half of his life to flirtations, politics and war, in which he was always brave but generally unlucky. He was melancholy, but amiable. He almost never smiled. He loved his friends but he was never effusive. He had wit, and he admitted it. He almost never lost his temper. He suffered from the gout, but not from excessive ambition. La Rochefoucauld described himself as having a high and broad forehead, small black eyes, bushy eyebrows, white, regular teeth, a chin that was too pronounced, black curly hair, and, altogether, "a fine head."

He distilled his thoughts about men and women into some even hundred "maxims," and because he took the trouble to do so, he is famous in literature. Here are just a few of them, taken from translation by John Heard, Jr. That little book is well worth owning. It was published in 1917, by Houghton Miffin company. La Rochefoucauld said:

Vanity outflatters the subtlest flatterer....We all have strength to bear our neighbor's burden....It takes a better man to bear good luck than bad....Had we no faults we would not take such pleasure in discovering them in others....It is our own pride that blames our neighbor's pride....We are never as happy or as unhappy as we think we are....We should be more ashamed to distrust our friends than to be deceived by them....Everyone blames his memory, no one his judgement....Many a marriage is happy, none is ideal.

Many would never have fallen in love, had they never heard the term. ....No one hesitates to praise his heart, yet who dares laud his mind? ....We admit our faults that our sincerity may redeem our reputations.....Hypocrisy is a tribute vice pays to virtue....Excessive zeal in discharging an obligation is a form of ingratitude....Devoting one's life to keeping well is one of the most tedious of ailments....Some wicked people would be less dangerous had they no redeeming qualities....The enthusiasm of youth is no more harmful than the indifference of age....It is easier to know mankind than any man....No one deems himself at every point inferior to the man he most admires....Old age is a tyrant that, under penalty of death, forbids all the pleasures of youth.

Many men and women have thoughts as sharp and true as these, but do not put them into words. One of George Ade's family once said, "George does not know any more than the rest of us, but he writes it down."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

DO YOU LOVE YOUR WORK?

How do you visualize your work in life? Did you choose wisely? Was there a job forced upon you which has always been distasteful? The man who picked out the thing to do in life that he was best fitted to do is a happy and prosperous man. The story of the three stone-cutters illustrates three different attitudes of men towards their work and it is not hard to pick out the man who loved his work to whom the trade of stone-cutter was a joy forever.

These three stone-cutters were working each upon a stone. A stranger asked the first what he was doing.

"I'm working for $7.50 a day," he replied.

"And you?" the stranger asked the second.

"I'm cutting this stone," growled the workman.

When the question was put to the third stone-cutter, he answered: "I'm building a cathedral."

ON "GUEST ROOMS"

Our grandparents and great-grandparents had "parlors."

Cold, stiff rooms that were shut off from use except on Sunday afternoons or when guests were present.

The slippery horsehair upholstery, the knit "tidies," the little wax figures of a bride and groom under glass, do you remember them?

Now we don't have parlors but we do have a "guest room" a "guest-chamber", the most beautiful and expensive rooms in the house and usually the wife permits none of the family to sleep on those "marvelous springs under downcomforters."

In fact the family is forbidden to enter that room.

Something might be misplaced or show finger marks.

Week after week and month after month, perhaps, the pleasantest room in the house is kept for guests that seldom come.

Certain members of the family sleep on hard beds, in bleak rooms, under worn and faded quilts and blankets.

Naturally the desire of the wife is for an attractive guest room.

But why can't some of the really "guesty" things be put away and brought out only when guests come, the lovely bedding stored in the chest.

We ridicule the old fashioned "parlor" and substitute a "guest room."

It might be worse. The very fact that crime goes unpunished is proof that its victims are still a minority.

IT IS ONLY THE CHILD MIND THAT THINKS MARBLES WORTH FIGHTING FOR

In the time of our grandfathers a religious crank excited the Middle West by predicting the immediate end of the world.

Thousands believed him and began to make preparations for the end. They sold their property at ridiculous prices, forgave their enemies and purged their hearts of greed.

Their belief in falsehood cost them dearly, but for the moment they saw a great truth and the truth made them free.

They saw that property has no value to a man who is ready to die. Neighbors who had quarreled over a boundary line saw how foolish they had been and made shame-faced apologies.

They understood the little worth of the things for which they had been contending, and at once they were free of malice and jealousy and envy.

If they had remembered the lesson and had succeeded in teaching it to the world, the crank might have gained rank as one of the great benefactors of the human race.

It is a truism that the love of money is the root of all evil that the greed for gain causes the greater part of the world's crime and combat and suffering.

And it is equally obvious that this greed for gain continues to curse the earth solely because men are not yet wise enough to understand that all are under sentence of death.

If men could see the truth and comprehend it fully, not one among them would contend for possessions and all would be free.

It is the desire for power and distinction and praise that prompts men to seize and hold properties. And if all of them, living in expectation of death, should learn to scorn possessions, there would be none to covet and no incentive to accumulate.

Men would find other ways to win praise and distinction and power—saner and more honorable ways—and civilization would at last be rid of its shackles.

When none envy property, none will accumulate it. When the greed for gain is conquered, crime will end.

It is not unreasonable to predict the end of greed. It is simply a matter of increasing wisdom. When men are intelligent enough to see the truth, their childish quarrels over trinkets will give way to a manly competition in unselfish service.

Yet you might feel as superior and free from inhibitions as modern kids do if somebody supported you in idleness.

BASHFUL BOY'S PREDICTAMENT

A bashful young man was invited out to dine. He was very much agitated. He sat opposite a mirror and discovered that he had forgotten to comb his hair. Then he dropped his fork on the floor and as he stopped to pick it up he upset his coffee. Matters went from bad to worse, until finally in despair the young man quit eating and put his hands under the table. The loose end of the table cloth was lying in his lap. When he touched it he turned pale. He thought it was his shirt, and that he had forgotten to put the garment in his trousers. That accounts for his further embarrassment. He hurriedly stuffed the supposed shirt inside his trousers. Afterward, when the family arose from the table, there was a crash. The dishes lay in a broken mass on the floor. The young man pulled three feet of table cloth out of his pants and flew to the woods.

One day last week a southern judge sentenced a young man to five years in the penitentiary for stealing automobiles. The boy's father made an appeal for mercy. "He's an only child, Judge" said he. "These only children are always rotten," said the judge. And he made the sentence severe to express his opinion of spoiled youngsters. His prejudice is perhaps justified, but punishing a spoiled child for being spoiled is unjust. The ones who deserve punishment are the parents. If an "only" child is any worse than the children in a large family, it is obvious that the fault isn't in the child. The folly of parents makes the kid ornery. And though he must be restrained or punished for his meanness, exact justice would lay a few stripes on the parents whose neglect or imbecility made him mean.

Efficiency In Deportations Is Subject Of Wide Debate

Recommendation By Wickersham Commission That Aliens Receive Better Treatment And Reply Of Secretary Doak Are Analyzed

The Wickersham report on American deportation practices has caused interested comment throughout the country, with attention focussed on the charges of cruelty which brought a reply from Secretary Doak of the department of labor. Sentiment seems to be divided as to the efficiency shown by the department officials, and there are also differences of opinion as to the need for the creation of a board of alien appeals, favored by the commission.

"Of the vagaries of some of Mr. Doak's subordinates and the stupidity of some government agents there can be no doubt," declares the HARRISBURG TELEGRAPH. The ST. JOSEPH GAZETTE sees in the record "the old story of red tape strangling common decency," though it believes "there should be no dispute as to the charge that deportation laws are too inflexible," and voices the "hope that the report will hasten the corrections that Mr. Doak indicates are on the way." The Gazette believes that "rigid rules in a matter like deportation are bound to work hardships that 'violate the plainest dictates of humanity'."

"Many aliens undoubtedly get into the country contrary to the provisions of the immigration law, and many, after they get here, forfeit their right to remain," concedes the OMAHA WORLD-HERALD, but that paper holds that "the method pursued in detecting them and in enforcing the law upon them should be consonant with the rights of man and with the principles that are presumed to characterize American law and American justice." The CHARLOTTE NEWS agrees with the position that "a strong objection to the deportation process is the fact that one agency, and often the same inspector, acts as informer, arresting officer, inquisitor and judge," pointing out that "the procedure concentrates authority over human rights and liberties in a single administrative agency which is not bound by the ordinary rules of evidence."

"What the deportation laws need," in the opinion of the NEWARK EVENING NEWS, "in the light of the Wickersham report, is the prescription of methods, the provision of machinery and the safeguarding of their administration that will insure strict justice to the alien without detracting from the essential 'right' of the nation to protect itself from the undesirables from abroad." The DANBURY EVENING NEWS demands that "brutality and bureaucratic officiousness," be stamped out.

"If the report leads to the softening of the law's rigidity, which at times has resulted in cruelties unavoidable under the existing statutes," says the SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE, "something will have been gained in humane advancement. The power to deport undesirable aliens or those in the country contrary to the immigration policy is inherent in the government. Enforcement is, in the main, as wholesome as it is necessary. But occasionally instances arise which result in the breaking up of families or other cruel injustices to innocent persons. The immigration authorities are not to blame. They have no choice but to follow the statute. Congress may find a way to remedy this defect."

Significance is found by the SPRINGFIELD (MASS.) UNION in the fact that "the commission itself is split on the report, Col. Henry W. Anderson of Richmond, Va., and former Justice Kenneth Mackintosh of the Washington state supreme court objecting to the charges as too severe." The Union quotes Secretary Doak's statement that "the major point is that the American people have a right to deport criminal aliens and aliens who have come illegally into the country," and advises that "it is well to keep that in mind when efforts are being made to drum up undeserved sympathy for alien radicals who fall afoul of our immigration laws."

Responsibility of aliens for crime in the United States is taken up by the SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS, with a quotation from the Wickersham report that there is a "fallacious notion that America's foreign-born population is responsible for the nation's crime wave." The Express suggests that the government prepare from its own statistics no crime a report "grouping the foreign-born criminals apart from the native killers or thieves." On the other hand, the PORTLAND OREGON JOURNAL asserts: "Chicago gangland was spawned in Europe and imported here. The illustrious names ni gang life are foreign. * * * What is the spectacle when the American civilization, wealthy, astonishingly virile and tremendously resourceful, cannot produce a system of laws by which to stop gangland from committing open murder or carrying on a ruthless massacre on the public streets?" The LEXINGTON LEADER takes the position: "The nation has approved of Mr. Doak's vigorous execution of the statutes. It desires to see the country combed for all those who have illegally gained admission, who have violated the laws."

"It is clear enough that there must be no let-down in the enforcement of the law," avers the CHARLESTON (W. VA.,) DAILY MAIL, while the MANCHESTER UNION, observing that in most of the Wickersham reports "there has been emphasis on the necessity of improving the quality of the personnel of the branches of the public service under consideration," concludes: "Perhaps, if the quality of existing bureaus' personnel was raised, the creating of new government agencies would not be needed."

"There will be sharp dissent," in the opinion of the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR, "from the proposal to establish a board of alien appeals. * * * * Changes may be made to good effect, in the procedure, but there is no need for another court, which would simply be a means of protracting the inquiries and delaying decisions and final action." The NEW YORK SUN takes a similar position, and adds that "congress is far more likely to amend the existing law where it is found to be oppressive in a considerable number of cases; and it is even more likely to seek to strengthen the law to prevent admission of undesirables." The LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL, on the other hand, is convinced that "such a tribunal would go far toward righting the wrongs of the present strong-arm procedure."

"The public would like to be convinced that a sincere effort is being made to do the job on hand with existing equipment before sanctioning further expenditures," states the WHEELING INTELLIGENCER, while the WALLA WALLA DAILY BULLETIN declares: "If there is not sufficient help provided for the forces that are seeking to rid the nation of such residents, it is time to provide it."

THOSE DUTY CALLS

When bill collectors call on me
I know that duty sends them.
They do not come my books to see
Though I'm a man who lends them.
Nor do they come to chat a while
Or ask me how I'm feeling.
Their visit, howsoe'er they smile,
Is just a business dealing.

A plumber makes a duty call
When pipes of ours are leaking.
He may not like the house at all,
Our friendship he's not seeking.
He comes because he's sent to see
What's wrong and to correct it.
And leaves without goodby to me.
What's more, I don't expect it.

But friendship sometimes takes a way
Which sadly mars its beauty,
How often man is heard to say:
"Because it is my duty
I'm going to call on Jim or Joe
And say a word to cheer him,
I really think I ought to go
Because I'm living near him."

These social duty calls I hate
With bitter detestation.
I want no one to swing my gate
To quit an obligation.
Alone I'd rather twirl my thumbs
Than give a moment's thought to
The proudest visitor who comes
Because he feels he ought to.

Special Committee Reports To Governor

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 20.—Emphasizing the fact that 919,000 persons, nearly one-fourth of the entire working population of the commonwealth, are without employment the report of the special unemployment committee named by Gov. Gifford Pinchot was made public here today through the executive office.

The survey and report made by the committee was the basis for the letter sent by the governor to President Hoover, urging him to call congress into special session to deal with the unemployment problem.

Conditions are serious in 30 of the 67 counties, the report stated. Conditions were blamed on the unusual lack of employment and likelihood of its continuance, abnormal part time employment, malnutrition, exhaustion of public and private funds and lack of private welfare organizations.

The state of affairs, the report said, is particularly bad in the bituminous region of Western Pennsylvania and in some sections of the anthracite fields.

Both prisons and almshouses are housing an unusually large population, while unprecedented demands are being made for free service from the hospitals, the report asserted. In each case, such conditions were blamed on lack of employment.

Although the governor began naming a state-wide unemployment committee before his inauguration, the special committee recommended the appointment of yet another organization. The proposed committee would, as intended for the original group, continue the survey and make needed recommendations.

The committee proposed that the new body devise ways and means of giving assistance and also to what extent assistance can be given from public tax funds.

Every LUCKY STRIKE is made of the finest tobacco leaves the world can offer—the finest from Turkey—the finest from Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas—the Cream of many Crops throughout the world. But all tobacco leaves, regardless of price and kind, as nature produces them, contain harsh irritants. LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—a process that mellows, that purifies, that includes the use of the modern Ultra Violet Ray—expels certain harsh irirtants naturally present in every tobacco leaf. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds, who use them as a base in making sheep-dip*, as well as a powerful spraying solution for trees, flowers and shrubs—enough to permit the daily dipping of over 50,000 sheep or the daily spraying of many thousands of trees. Thus, you are sure these irritants, naturally present in all tobacco leaves, are not in your LUCKY STRIKE. "They're out—so they can't be in!"

Everyone of the eleven cabin groups participated in the program of the campfire and there were miscellaneous stunts including the dramatization of songs, stories and fairy tales, also of the work of the counselors in the instruction of their various groups. The program proved very interesting and kept the entire group thoroughly interested and amused from the start to the finish.

The camp will come to an official close on Saturday. Most of the girls will return to their homes on Saturday morning and it is expected and requested that all girls be on their way home not later than three o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Garbage Here Shows Increase

Eight hundred and twenty-five tons of garbage were collected and incinerated here during the month of July, according to a report to be submitted by Howard Phillips to city council Friday. One hundred loads and 200 barrels were hauled away by non-city employes, according to Phillips' estimate. This is an increase over post months, due to the fruit and corn season.

P. R. R. Enginemen Go Seven Months Minus Injury Case

Department Reports First 1931 Case Few Days Ago, Report Today

Remarkable in every way is the accident-free safety record maintained for the first seven month of 1931 by the engine service department of the Pennsylvania railroad's E. & A. division. Until August 1, no mishaps had occurred.

Unfortunately, after keeping its slate clean for so long a period, the department saw registered a few days ago a reportable case, one which absents a workman from his post for more than three days.

The engine service constitutes the road's locomotive firemen and engineers. Officials look upon their record as notable.

Cavalrymen Are Back In Camp To Start Packing Up

Four Day Maneuver Ended With Enemy Beaten Back By Trained Cavalrymen

75-MILE SWEEP IS COMPLETED

(International News Service)

CAMP KEMP, Mt. Gretna, Pa. Aug. 20—Successfully ending a four day maneuver in the field with a victorious clash with enemy horse, the 52nd cavalry brigade of the Pennsylvania National Guard returned to its base here today and prepared to break camp this week-end.

An early morning cavalry engagement, in which the defending blue army drove off a force of red cavalry which had crossed the Susquehanna river to invade the rich farming district centering about Lebanon county brought to a close this morning the cavalry tactical demonstration which took troopers on a 75 mile sweep through adjacent territory and demonstrated effectiveness of the cavalry as an advance and screening force.

Called At Midnight

At midnight, troopers were turned out at their temporary camp at Cobumbia and the call to "boots and saddles" sent them to horse and on an 18 mile advance under secret orders.

The first city troop of Philadelphia, led by Capt. Effingham B. Morris Jr., represented the invading red force. The defending force was commanded by Col. Edward J. Stackpole, Jr., of Harrisburg commander of the 104th regiment and ranking colonel of the brigade. Brig. Gen. Edward C. Shannon acted as umpire for the demonstration.

From the camp, some 1600 sabers under Col. Stackpole advanced to within a mile of the cavalry base at Colebrook before encountering the enemy.

Enemy Driven Off

There the head of the column ran into a hornet's nest of shooting, slashing troopers and the fight was on. Putting into practice the war lessons learned earlier in field training, the defensive cavalrymen deployed and a hot combat was waged before the red column was shattered and driven off.

There was little doubt in the minds of instructors the brigade had successfully attained all objectives during its field maneuvers and the troopers returned to camp a tired but satisfied outfit.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Perry of San Antonio, Tex., who for some time has been the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney B. Johns, Garfield avenue, has left for Meyersdale, Pa., where she will spend some time with her mother.

Retrace Cramer Air Route

New York Police Detain Blonde On Shooting Charges

Senator Roy Yates Will Not Act As Prosecuting Witness Against Blonde

ARRAIGNED IN COURT TODAY

Rigid Investigation Under Way In New Jersey As Result Of Recent Expose

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 20—Although state Senator Roy T. Yates of New Jersey said he had no recollection of how he was shot or by whom, Ruth Jayne Cranmer, his beautiful blonde friend, remained in jail today. Yates was found wounded in the abdomen last Friday in the girl's apartment.

Police said that after Miss Cranmer was arraigned for the second time this morning they would ask that she be held another 48 hours without bail. Authorities said despite the fact that Yates was apparently on the road to recovery and although he refused to appear as prosecuting witness, the case would not be dropped, at least not immediately.

Miss Cranmer will be charged in court this morning with felonious assault.

Refuse To Talk

While Yates was telling questioners he knew nothing of the shooting, Miss Cranmer refused to talk to interviewers.

In New Jersey reforms were promised as an aftermath of shooting of the senator, who had employed Miss Cranmer as a research worker on the state pension survey commission, of which he was chairman. She also had a state railway pass. A check of the girl's employment continued and candidates for governor of New Jersey announced they would seek, if elected, to amend the statute governing the issuance of railway passes.

Health Officer Explains Tests

Tells Council In Report What Constitutes Insanitary Milk

"Many people do not understand the meaning of the number of bacteria in milk" according to the July report of Dr. W. L. Steen which he will submit to council, Friday. "It is the way we measure the amount of dirt there is in milk. Bacteria live and grow on the small particle of dirt. We cannot measure the dirt but we can count the bacteria" the report added.

It continued to state that "good clean milk should contain less than 25,000 bacteria per c. c. Milk that contains more than 100,000 bacteria is classed insanitary, unwholesome and its sale here prohibited."

The analysis of milk samples collected by city employes during July resulted in the following report:

Question Show Girls About Disappearance Of Wealthy Japanese

Name Of Mildred Harris, Former Wife Of Charlie Chaplin Drawn Into Probe

Pretty Blonde Show Girl Governess Says Importer Had Enemies

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The name of Mildred Harris, former wife of Charlie Chaplin, screen star, today was drawn into the case of Hisashi Fujimura, wealthy Japanese importer, who disappeared mysteriously during a cruise on the liner Belengland.

The Federal Government today planned to determine if it had jurisdiction in investigating the case and whether a crime had been committed.

Assistant Attorney J. Edward Lubard began an investigation and said he would question Miss Harris and Mary Reisner, pretty show girl, who were on the liner.

Miss Reisner was travelling with Fujimura as a governess to his young daughter when the importer was shoved, fell or jumped from the liner.

Mildred Harris Named

Miss Reisner named Mildred Harris as her companion at a shipboard party during the hours in which Fujimura disappeared.

She told how Fujimura retired to his cabin early Friday morning.

"We were sitting on the deck," said Miss Reisner. "We stayed there until about 1 a. m. then he said he was going to bed and left me. That was the last I saw of him."

The showgirl added that after Fujimura left her she joined a party given by Mildred Harris and did not retire to her own cabin until 4 a. m. The cabin of Miss Reisner adjoined that of Fujimura.

The showgirl governess said that a man aboard the liner was designated as "an enemy" by Fujimura and the importer had asked her not to leave him alone.

The Japanese consul here formally requested an investigation by Federal authorities.

Milk Stars On Balance In the Diet

Lacteal Fluid Is Only Complete Food, Doctor Declares

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

We start our consideration of various tyes of foods with dairy products, for that is how we all start naturally—with one dairy product—milk.

Since milk is the only food prepared in the human or animal body as the sole food of a growing individual, it is a complete and perfect food. It is the only complete food.

Though many kinds of milk are used by human beings, American habits limit the term to cow's milk and that alone is meant below by the word "milk".

Yesterday we said that the four fundamental features of a healthy diet in the order of their importance were: 1, sufficiency; 2, cleanliness; 3, balance, and 4, bulk.

Milk stars on balance. It contains carbohydrate, protein, fat, minerals, water and vitamins .It probably has a number of other virtues that we do not know about yet.

It can be obtained clean. But one of its disadvantages as a food is that it is easily contaminated.

For adult consumption it falls down on suffiency and bulk. If you have no other food than milk it takes a great deal to supply an adult's energy requirements. An ordinary glass of milk containing 8 ounces, or 250 c. c. has about 160 calories. Ten times this—ten glasses of milk a day, or a quart and a half, would only give 1,600 calories. This is about half the energy value for a 150-pound adult.

The common saying that milk is constipating simply means that it does not have enough bulk, or residue, to stimulate the intestinal muscles. Infants have a limited digestive capacity, so that it meets their needs perfectly. For the same reason, milk and cream are the staple dietary articles of those wtih poor digestion, dyspepsia or stomach ulcer.

Cow's milk contains all the vitamins in varying amounts, depending on the grazing. It is more liable to be deficient in vitamins B and D than the others. As pasteurization destroys vitamin C, this is supplied infants in the form of orange ujice Vitamin D also is given infants in the form of cod liver oil, but as this is to prevent rickets which does not threaten adults a grown person need not bother about vitamin D.

A glass of milk a day is probably one of the healthiest accessories to a grown person's diet.

Eggs, like milk, are deficient in bulk, but supply more energy by weight than milk. On account of their well-balanced content and easy digestibility they are ideal foods for convalescence from illness. By instinct man has learned to use them with other foods to make up a complete diet.

A medium-sized egg weighs 60 grams, contains 6 grams of protein and 6 grams of fat, little, if any, carbohydrate, and yields 80 to 85 calories. Eggs contain a great dea' of iron, sulphur, prosphorus and good amounts of calcium. They are very rich in vitamin B, and as much vitamin A as any other food product. They also contain vitamin D.

As to cleanliness, eggs have almost never been incriminated as a cause of food poisoning. The shell protects them; when they go bad their sulphur compounds let the nose know.

State To Build Road From Slippery Rock Direct To Mercer

Route Is 14 Miles Long; Mercer Jail Population Small; Other Mercer Notes

MERCER, Aug. 20—The Mercer-Slippery Rock road will be built at once is the promise of state road men who have assumed charge of the Pinchot road program.

The route is 14 miles and is the unimproved portion of the old Butler Pike, a stage coach road between Erie and Pittsburgh.

It is reported that the state will also proceed to the building of the Scrubgrass road and the West Middlesex-Mercer road. These routes will come first it is learned.

What the state proposes is a 14 foot roadway of crushed stone that later will be covered with a top dressing of ash or slag. It is the intention to put this stone on each year for three years. By that time a foundation of tremendous strength will be attained. A coating of crushed stone rolled is the present plan. It has been tried out on the Mercer-Clarksville road and found very satisfactory.

The commissioners announce the date of September 4th as final for voters desiring to have their names placed in registration lists. Any voter not listed may call on that date and have his name listed. This is for voters living in the towns or townships. No change of politics may take place at this registration which is to give voters not registered a chance to have their names posted.

Just one case of measles in 32 Mercer county townships constitute the contagious disease epidemic in that part of the county. Never have health conditions been better is the statement of Joe Jones, county health officer.

A jail population of 54 men and two women the smallest total in five years is reported by Sheriff D. K. Callahan. For the past four months arrests have been correspondingly as few which accounts for the depleted jail population.

No money to buy booze has put the bootleggers temporarily out of business, say officers.

Probe Opens In Disappearance Of Wealthy Jap

Woman Presumed To Be Governess, Admits To Being Just On The Party

MILDRED HARRIS ONE OF GROUP

Silk Corporation Offers $5,000 For Information Of Whereabouts Of Head

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug .20—Details of an unbilled melodrama aboard the six day "show boat" cruise of the Liner Belgenland were unfolded today.

It was entitled: the mysterious disappearance of Hisashi Fujimura, millionaire Japanese importer.

The leading lady: Mrs. Mary Reisner, the former musical comedy actress Mary Dale, who played "Geisha Girl" to the wealthy Japanese during the cruise.

Mildred In Cast

Others in the cast being assembled by federal authorities investigating the incident included Mildred Harris, divorced wife of Charlie Chaplin: a number of Broadway entertainers who contributed to the gay life aboard the vacation liner: and a score of prominent persons of the upper social strata also aboard the vessel.

The plot—if there was a plot—will be determined by a federal grand jury next Monday when Mary Dale Reisner, who admitted that she really wasn't the "governess" of the seven year old daughter of Fujimura, will be questioned further and the other passengers called.

Mrs. Reisner, a pretty platinum blonde, revealed to authorities that her expenses on the trip had been paid by Fujimura, that he had quarrelled with her before his disappearance for attending too many parties aboard the boat, and that she had gone to a midnight-to-dawn party given by Mildred Harris during the hours Fujimura disappeared.

Federal authorities were trying to answer the following questions:

Was there a drunken quarrel aboard the liner?

Did Fujimura engage in an altercation with any occidental admirer of the lovely actress?

Was the Japanese importer murdered at sea?

Did he fall of jump overboard?

Did the married Fujimura, afraid of being seen in the company of Mrs. Reisner, slip ashore unnoticed by custom officials when the liner landed next day?

Not A Governess

Mrs. Reisner, according to Assistant U. S. Attorney J. Edwin Lumbard, Jr., made the following statement:

"I was not employed as a governess. Hisashi and I had adjoining cabins. We had a quarrel the last night because he did not want me to go up to the party given by Mildred Harris.

"I left him about 1 a. m. Friday as the liner was nearing New York Harbor. I came back at 4 a. m and went to bed in Y cabin. At six o'clock the steward woke me up and said Hisashi was gone."

Lumbard said he was investigating reports of heel marks on the window of the importer's cabin as well as a report that there had been a scuffle in the room some time between 2 and 2:30 a. m.

Mildred Harris, one of the stars in the liner's entertainment program, said she had seen Fujimura aboard but "didn't recall much about him."

"Mrs. Reisner was at my party," she said. "We talked some and when I wanted to go below to pack, she said: 'don't go yet, I'll help you pack in the morning.' She did come around in the morning but she was all upset because her boy friend was missing."

A reward of $5,000 was offered by the silk corporation of which Fujimura was the head for information as to whether the importer was dead or alive.

The Japanes consul and British counsel-general have opened inquiries of their own. The lines was of British registration.

About the time the importer disappeared his three-year-old daughter, Mickedo, died at his home in Norwalk Conn.

Pittsburgh Wants To See "Akron" In Flight Next Week

Invitation Extended "Akron" Airship Officials To Visit Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 20—The Akron, newest giant airship of the U. S. Navy, which is to take off on its maiden voyage some time next week, will be asked to visit Pittsburgh through an invitation issued its commander C. E. Rosendahl, it was learned today.

Following a meeting of the aeronautical committee of the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow, it was reported, an invitation will be extended to include Pittsburgh in the airship's itinerary.

While it is hoped to have the flying ship land here, Raymond A. Tucker, chairman of the committee, stated that it was unlikely as there is no mooring mast at any of the airports in this district.

However, if the big ship is unable to visit the city, Tucker said, Commander Rosendahl and his crew will be invited to attend a luncheon in Pittsburgh, to be given at some future time in their honor.

Books Are Ready For Registrars

Citizens Are Urged To Register On The First Day Which Is August 27th

County Commissioners have books ready for the registrars in the different voting precincts of the city. First registration day will be held on Thursday, August 27th. Registrars will sit from 7 to 9 a. m., 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. and 4 p. m. to 10 p. m. By observing the time during which registrations can be made, voters can save themselves the annoyance of going to the election districts and not finding the board in session. It is urged that as many as possible register on the first day. There are always a certain number who wait until the last day, when something may turn up that will prevent them from registering. Voters applying for registration should take a county tax receipt, showing taxes paid within the past two years.

Roundheads Hear Memorial Poem

"The Flags of Sixty-One," a stirring poem of the Roundheads was written by John W. Morrison, the last living officer of the regiment. The poem which follows was sent to Miss Laura Stevenson, honorary secretary of the Roundheads association and was read at the reunion held Wednesday in the Central Presbyterian church.

THE FLAGS OF 'SIXTY_ONE.
By John W. Morrison,
One Hundredth Penna. Vet. Vols.,
(Roundheads.)

The flags are furled. The faded, tattered colors
That once waved proudly in the battle-breeze,
Cling to their time-worn staffs, concealing
Rents from shot and shell—incarnadined
With heroes' blood—mute witnesses of
Fields of carnage, agony and woe.
Through days of summer's fervid heat and
Winter's chilling winds, they waved above
The hosts of marching men, and, like a benediction,
Rested o'er their bivouac at night. They shared
With those who followed them the victories
Achieved and seemed to droop in times of Anguish and defeat. They saw the zenith of
The soldiers' hopes—the nadir of their
Despair and gloom. These treasured relics of a
Tragic past were borne aloft midst battle-flame,
By youths who wore the "Badge of Courage," and Falling in their defense their last devoted
Gaze was on the dear old flag for which they
Bravely fought—for which they nobly died.
To-day with faltering steps and slow, surviving
Veterans bowed with age, with throbbing hearts
And kindling eyes, carry these standards to their
Last abiding place, their silken folds ne'er more in Motion to be stirred, save by the breeze of tender
Memories—ne'er more to be unfurled in fratricidal war,
For "Peace like a river," extends o'er a united
People and a glorious land. No longer do they typify
The bitterness and hate engendered by a long and Sanguinary strife.

* * * *

The veterans' work is done. Their sun is sinking
In the western sky; for them the shadows lengthen;
For them the ev'ning's twilight soon shall mingle
With the mists of night, and calmly they await
The sounding of the bugle's last pathetic
Army call—TAPS! LIGHTS OUT!

(This poem was written at the time of the transfer of the battle-flags of Pennsylvania, from the State library to the rotunda of the new Capitol.)

"THIN LINE OF HEROES" RESPOND TO "ASSEMBLY"

answered the last roll call took a keen interest in the proceedings. Roundhead widows who attended are:

Mrs. Thomas Offutt, Mrs. H. M. Wilson, Mrs. James McCommon, Mrs. M. K. McDowell, Mrs. Jacob Wallace, Mrs. Mary Gordon.

The reunion meeting was opened with a prayer by Rev. J. R. Rankin of Butler, a surviving Roundhead. After a brief routine of business the old officers were re-elected for another term.

Officers Close To Regiment

The officers of the society are closely affiliated with the history of the famous regiment. The president, James P. Sankey is a survivor of Company K of the Roundhead regiment. Both vice presidents, William H. Dunlap and Ralph M. Campbell are sons of men of Company K.

The father of Miss Gyla McDowell, chairman of the historical committee, was a member of Company F. The father of the honorary secretary and treasurer, Miss Laura M. Stevenson, James C. Stevenson was a member of Company E, and following the organization of the Roundheads at the close of the war, became the secretary of the society.

Miss Anna Gilliland, secretary and treasurer, is a daughter of Capt. Joseph J. Gilliland of Company K.

During the past year, the Roundheads were informed by Miss Gilliland the secretary and treasurer, the following members of their regiment died:

Company E.

Charles B. Smith, Youngstown, and John S. Roth, Lamoni, Ia.

Company F.

James D. Quest, Uptoy, Wyoming, and William Black of California.

Company K.

James W. Clark, Ventnor, N. J., and David P. Crawford, Beaver Falls.

Why Called Roundheads

When the call for war was sounded in April, 1861 and President Lincoln called for 75,000 volunteers among the first to respond was a New Castle man, Dr. Daniel Leasure, whose military training especially fitted him for the service of recruiting soldiers.

The companies of Lawrence Guards were comprised of first class young men from the town of New Castle and surrounding neighborhood and their conduct was such as to win the favor and attract the attention of the people of Maryland, and the government officers at Washington.

About the terminatioin of the three-month service for which the volunteers had been taken into the army, Captain Leasure visited the Secretary of War and asked permission to organize an independent regiment.

Call Them Roundheads

The State had already filled her quota and there seemed little chance just then to get in as state troops. The secretary asked him: "Can you bring out a full regiment of as good men as compose those two companies guarding those bridges out on the Gunpowder?" The Captain replied: "I have no other kind to bring."

"Well," said General Scott who was present in the secretary's office at the time, "we will call them Roundheads", thus complimenting Secretary Cameron who prided himself in being a descendant of the old English Roundheads.

Historically, the Roundheads, have a great heritage which should be cherished, Miss McDowell, the chairman of the historical committee, told the gathering in the church auditorium. The Roundheads proved indespensible she said, as a strategic fighting machine that developed the victories which eventually followed the various campaigns of the regiment.

Miss McDowell showed maps of the different engagements of the Roundheads, on a screen in the auditorium, explained the importance of such campaigns as the Weldon Railroad, Siege of Knoxville, James Island, Cold Harbor in which the regiment took part.

The 24 engagements credited to the Roundheads and the number killed or mortally wounded at each point follow:

Legare's Point, S. C., 3; James Island, S. C., 13; Mannasses, Va., 64; Chintilly, Va., 8; S. Mountain, Md., 12; Antietam, Md., 2; Jackson, Miss., 2; Blue Springs, Tenn., 1; Campbell Station, Tenn., 1; Siege of Knoxville, 5; Wilderness, Va., 3; Spottsylvania, 42; North Anna, Va., 2; Bethseda Church, Va., 2; Cold Harbor, Va., 17; Siege of Petersburg, 19; Mine Explosion, Va., 22; Weldon Railroad, Va., 5; Popular Grove Church, 4; Hatcher's Run, Va., 1; Fort Steadman, Va., 21; On Picket Line, 3.

The Roundhead regiment was not only noted for its name, but for the long journeys it made by sea and land, and for its effective service on many widely separated battlefields.

At the reunion yesterday the old survivors recalled with pride the oath they took when they enlisted:

Roundheads' Oath

"I do solemnly swear that I will bear true allegiance to the United States of America and that I will serve them honestly and faithfully against all their enemies and oppressors whatsoever and observe and obey the orders of the President of the United States and the orders of the officers appointed over me according to the rules and articles for the government of the armies of the United States, so help me God."

Plans for the reunion had been prepared by the reunion committee comprised in addition to Mr. Rentz, of Judge James A. Chambers, William A. Moffatt, Joseph Campbell, W. J. Offutt, John P. Lockhart and John Fisher.

Of the estimated 2,014 who were enrolled in the famous regiment throughout its existence, only 45 are known to be alive today. Of that number only 15 are said to have enlisted in the first group of volunteers.

Numerous letters were received by the society's officers from Roundheads who could not attend, as well as from descendants of members of the regiment.

Among the letters was one from John W. Morrison of Wayne, Pa., the only living ex-officer of the regiment, who wrote to Miss Laura M. Stevenson, the honorary secretary and treasurer, stating that the reason he could not attend was because he was "four score and ten".

"There are too many miles of steel rails between Wayne and New Castle and I cannot fly," Morrison wrote.

Other Communications

Other communications were received from the following who lamented the necessity of their absence from the reunion which they would so well like to have attended:

John Gailey Glenn, New Concord, O.; William H. Floor, Houston, Texas; Robert Taggart, Pittsburgh; Almeron Everett, Hamilton, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Barnes, Sandy Lake; John G. Glenn, New Concord, O.; Israel Myers, Sheridan, Ind.; Jacob D. Womer, Los Angeles, Cal.; G. S. Heasley, Monaco, Pa.; John Shields, Washington, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Stevenson, Porto Rico.

One of the regular features that has marked the reunions of the Roundheads, the regimental memorial, was read at the gathering yesterday. This memorial was prepared by Robert Audley Browne, one of the past chaplains, and was first read on September 12, 1894.

The prospect of increasing the personnel of the Society of the Roundheads was brought up at the reunion by Miss Frances McDowell of R. F. D. 3, Volant, Pa., who is in charge of enrollment of honorary members.

Honorary membership in the society is open to all wives, widows, daughters, sons, granddaughters, grandsons, sisters and brothers of Roundheads.

All important topic discussed by Miss Gyla McDowell chairman of the historical committee, who is now preparing a history of the regiment, held the attention of the reunioners. Miss McDowell's plan is to formulate a history that will have a human interest touch in its content. She plans to visit living Roundheads and their descendants who remember the small, living details of the conflict of the states. Real, true anecdotes and stories of the soldiers in camp and battle, as well as the things that went on at home while the soldiers were away, will fill the volume that is being written by Miss DcDowell.

The woman also told of her hope that the society will collect its old war paraphernalia and relics for a permanent collection which would be of interest to the visitor as well as the citizens in New Castle. A museum with collections of objects that belonged to the Roundheads during the war, as well as old and rare photographs would be a welcome addition to the civic interest of the city, Miss McDowell said.

Demonstration Of Canning And Drying Saturday At 1 P. M.

The community gardens, which were planted early in the spring from seeds furnished by the American Red Cross and supervised by members of the Garden Club, have produced a large quantity of food stuffs, which will come in mighty handy this winter for the needy of the city.

In order that there is no waste of material among this produce, the Garden Club members have arranged for Mrs. Elizabeth Carson of the P-O company to give a second demonstration of canning and drying methods in the Carnegie Auditorium Saturday at 1 p. m.

This week's demonstration will cover the canning and drying of corn and beans and the making of tomato paste.

Jars will be distributed Saturday to those who need them for the produce of the community gardens, but a grown up member of the family must be present in person in order to receive the jars.

The Garden Club is further appealing to the housewives of the city for donations of jars, and they will be called for if the ones having them will get in touch with the Red Cross or any member of the Garden Club.

ROUNDHEAD REUNION HIGHLIGHTS

Some day someone will write a historical romance based on incidents in the history of the gallant Roundheads. Miss Gyla McDowell, dean of women and head of the history department at Geneva college, has started something on that order when she began to prepare a human interest history of the regiment.

Due to the few Roundheads present who transacted their 66th business meeting in the Central Presbyterian church auditorium before the other guests and reunioners, it was discovered when the time came to elect officers that a nomianting committee had not been elected. The election was conducted just the same, nevertheless, with Prothonotary Campbell, one of the vice-presidents, ably assisting in the proceedings.

Battle of James Island? "Any of you Roundheads present at that engagement of the 100th Pennsylvania volunteer infantry?" one of the speakers asked. Instantly four gray-haired men arose and received the applause of the others in the gathering.

A framed picture of Dr. Leasure the New Castle man who organized the Roundhead regiment, as well as the regimental standard were on display in the auditorium. "Battle Flashes," a list of the 24 engagements in which the Roundheads took an important part, was found on a huge red banner brought to the reunion by the officers of the society.

Among the letters received by the officers was one from Mr. and Mrs Bert Stevenson of Porto Rico, former well known New Castleites, who lamented their inability to attend the reunion. Mrs. Stevenson's uncle James D. Quest, an ex-Roundhead, answered the last roll call recently

The legend of the prison spring was told by Mrs. James McCommon a Roundhead widow. According to the story which has been handed down by descendants of a group of Roundhead soldiers who had been confined in a Confederate prison, a spring of cool water, which is said to be still in existence today, suddenly arose in the prison yard after the Roundheads had prayed long for water.

* * *

Because he is 92 years of age John G. Glenn, New Concord, O., wrote the reunion committee that he could not attend. Infirmities of old age kept the remainder of the 45 Roundheads known to be alive today from attending the 66th annual reunion

"Money Order" Ring Believed Smashed

Postal Inspectors Find 120 Money Orders In Abandoned Miners' Hut

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 20.—With the recovery of 120 United States postal money orders in an abandoned miner's hut at Atcheson, postoffice inspectors today expressed the belief that a "money order" ring may be broken up in the near future.

The blank orders had been stolen three months ago at the Lake Lynn postoffice. In addition, 11 money orders stolen about the same time from the Dillinger postoffice were found.

Postoffice Inspector George V. Craighead was led to the miner's hut by George Wylie, 21, of Ganns, Pa., who was taken into custody last week at Camden, N. J., and returned to Pittsburgh to face a charge of passing money orders there.

Inspector Craighead would not reveal whether Wylie was suspected of aiding in the theft of the blank orders. Wylie is being held for federal grand jury action.

Gas In the Stomach Is Truly Dangerous

Gas, Pain, Bloating and a feeling of fullness after eating are almost certain evidence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach.

Too much acid irritates the delicate stomach lining, frequently causing chronic Gastritis and dangerous Ulcers. Food ferments and sours, forming a gas that distends the stomach and often seriously affects the Heart.

It is genuine folly to neglect such a condition or to treat with artificial digestive aids that cannot neutralize the stomach acid. A better way is to get from New Castle Drug Co., or any good druggist some Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets) and take a little after each meal. This famous but simple and inexpensive stomach sweetener and anti-acid can be depended upon to prove its value in less than five minutes. In most instances, relief comes instantly! Pleasant and perfectly harmless to use—Bisurated Magnesia does give wonderful relief in nine out of ten cases. Ask your Doctor or Druggist.

One Time Sheriff Who Was Roundhead Misses His Reunion

Sam W. Bell, Now Of San Diego, Cal., Regrets Inability To Attend Affair

An ex-sheriff of Lawrence county has sent sincere regrets at inability to attend the 66th annual reunion of the Roundhead regiment of which he was formerly a member.

The note was just received by Miss Laura M. Sevenson, honorary secretary and treasurer of the Society of the Roundheads, from Sam W. Bell, one time sheriff of Lawrence county, who now resides in San Diego, Cal.

Writing to Miss Stevenson, Bell states:

"I read your kind invitation to attend the Roundhead reunion. As it is impossible to be a visitor in person, I will be with you in spirit. I will send you a little picture. A year ago I was with the Roundheads, and I will never forget the kind reception I received. It is a sweet thought to know that my dear friends of New Castle still think of me. I have been quite poorly for some time with a combination of disabilities to numerous to mention, but I am still able to go around."

Piles Go Quick
Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protuding piles have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist with a rigid money back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's prescription has a wonderful record of success right in this city and Eckerd's, New Castle Drug Co., invites every Pile sufferer to try a bottle of HEM-ROID and guarantee to refund the purchase price if they do not end Piles in any form.

Lawrence County's First Settlers Were Founders Of Ohio's First Village

Schoenbrunn, a strange little uninhabited village near New Philadelphia, O., visited each year by thousands of interested tourists, is of more than passing interest to residents of Lawrence county.

For woven in the history of that first town of Ohio is the story of the first settlement of Lawrence county, the founding of the village Moravia.

It was in April, 1770, 161 years ago, that the famous Moravian missionary, David Zeisberger, and a group of his Indian converts stopped on the bank of the Beaver river at the present site of Moravia, built a log chapel and dwellings necessary to accommodate their small company. This county was dense wilderness then and Missionary Zeisberger was the first white man to tread the soil.

Came From Tionesta.

The missionary, and his loyal Indian followers had come from the mouth of the Tionesta creek now in Forest county where they had attempted to plant a mission—but failed because of the very hostile manner of the Indians in that region.

They made the voyage in canoes down the Allegheny and Ohio rivers and then up the Beaver. They landed on the broad bottom land that spreads along the left bank of the Beaver at and above Moravia, "upon the invitation of the great chief or king, Pack-an-ke, who gave them the ground upon which to erect their village," old records of Lawrence county state.

This strange group of redmen and their leader camped and commenced improvements on the ground a little west of where the hamlet of Moravia now stands, but finding the location too low and fearful of high water and malaria they changed it some time in July following to the west bank of the river. There they laid out a new town on ground elevated a hundred or more feet above the river.

Here the settlement remained, making improvements and laboring among the Indians until the spring of 1772 when they abandoned their town and moved to the headwaters of the Muskingum in Ohio.

"Beautiful Spring."

"Schoenbrunn" was the name they gave this new town. In the German language that means "beautiful spring". It was this spring that decided the site of their camp. The town was laid out in the shape of an inverted "T" with 40 lots, each three rods wide and six rods long. At the end of the year the town consisted of 60 houses of hewn timber, besides huts and lodges, a church and a schoolhouse.

They lived there for five years and then were forced to burn their village to the ground and leave because of annoyance of heathen Indians.

Five years after that the Moravians returned to Schoenbrunn, being badly in need of corn. They remembered the 5,000 bushels they had abandoned in their fields.

They had their corn gathered and were ready to start the next day when suddenly the blow fell

Col. Williamson and a company of militia arrived and under the guise of the greatest friendliness and pious talk gained the confidence of the Christian Indians. Too late they discovered their mistake. On the eighth of March, 1782, was perpetrated one of the blackest deeds in the country's history . Ninety Christian Indians were murdered in cold blood.

Forgotten For Century.

The Indians and their white missionaries, after whom Moravia in Lawrence county was named, and who established the first school house, the first church and the first town in Ohio and the first settlement in Lawrence county and all the Beaver valley, were forgotten for 100 years after the terrible massacre.

Maps of Schoenbrunn were found at Bethlehem, Pa., and several years ago the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical society instigated the unearthing of the village site and the state made a memorial park of it.

Cabins, barns, school house, church, work shops—everything was rebuilt on the exact locations just as they appeared in the 18th century. The cabins were furnished in pioneer style. Not a tree, shrub, flower or any article in the cabins has been permitted that might not have been there when the town was first built.

Because of its connection with the history of their own county many citizens of New Castle and vicinity have made the trip and lived for a short time in the quaint atmosphere of the long deserted hamlet. Schoenbrunn may be reached by going to Poland, O., then to Columbiana, Alliance, Minerva, Dover and New Philadelphia.

Marathon Dancer Drowns In Ocean

Marathon Dance At Wildwood, New Jersey, Ends In Fatality

(International News Service)

WILDWOOD, N. J., Aug. 20. — Tragedy saddened the contestants in the marathon dance contest here Wednesday when John Birch, 28, of Columbus, O., was drowned and his wife, Helen, 24, and John Passo, 26, all entrants in the contest, were rescued by life guards.

The couples jigged across the beach to the surf and entered the water with Passo, when a strong undertow carried them into deep water. Life guards managed to pull Mrs. Birch and Passo into a boat but Birch sank. His body has not yet been recovered.

The dead man and his wife entered the contest on June 23 and had been in motion continuously that is 45 minutes of dancing, 15 minutes of rest—during the eight weeks of the grind. The rules of the contest permitted them to bathe once every 48 hours if they kept in motion while in the water.

Wife Pleads

While her husband's body was being sought by the life guards, Mrs. Birch unaware of the tragedy pleaded with the guard at the hospital tent "please let me go," she said.

"John and I need the money to buy a home and start housekeeping he'll be heartbroken if I quit on him now."

The drowning cast pall over the other contestants. However, they shuffled back into the hall and continued the grind.

Trend Of Steel Orders Taken As Hopeful Sign

The Iron Age in its wekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow will say:

A slight gain in steel demand, mainly as the result of specifications from the automobile industry, and prospective increase in line pipe bookings, structural steel awards and rail releases have strengthened the hopes of iron and steel producers for a seasonal upturn in business.

While current orders from motor car builders are too small and too scattered to throw much light on September assembly schedules, they are interpreted as portending larger and more widely distributed releases. The outlook in line pipe is more clearly defined. Orders about to be placed include 36,000 tons for the Stanoland Pipe Line Co. and 15,000 tons for the Lycoming Natural Gas Co., which with smaller tonnages aproaching the closing stage, are counted on to sustain the recently increased operations of electric weld and seamless pipe mills until the end of the current quarter.

Rails Irregular

Rail specifications are still irregular, as evidenced by the shutting down of the Pittsburgh district mill after a week's run, but will be heavier next month. Releases for September rolling thus far, received at Chicago, point to a gain of 25 to 50 per cent in Western rail mill operations.

Fabricated steel awards, at 13,000 tons, are the smallest reported for any week since April. However, several large tonnages are on the verge of being placed and new projects, totaling 24,000 tons, have come up for figures. Mill shipments of both structural steel and reinforcing bars have been holding up well, with the liklihood that they will continue to make a good showing. A negative factor so far as concrete bars are concerned is a controversy in Illinois, regarding that State's "Standard Wage Law" which may delay the award of more than $10,000,000 worth of road work until next year.

Miscellaneous manufacturing consumers or iron and steel have as yet given little indication of an impending upturn in their requirements. Makers of textile and shoe machinery have increased their specifications in cold-finished bars, and demand for tack plate is more active, but the total steel tonnage involved is insignificant. A few released have come from the farm equipment industry, but it is a question whether much improvement can be expected from that quarter in view of depressed agricultural conditions: In this connection it is to be noted that country trade in wire products, which ordinarily picks up at this time of the year, is very backward.

Tin Plate Off

Tin plate production, which has held up unusually well throughout the depression has declined to 50 per cent of capacity, the lowest rate of the year. Container manufacturers are specifying sparingly, pending the receipts of final reports on the tomato and corn crops.

Steel ingot production still fails to show a uniform trend. The intermittant operations now characteristic of various steel finishing departments continue to be reflected in irregularities in raw steel output. Gains in ingot production at Cleveland and Chicago are in contrast with losses at Buffalo, Birmingham and Pittsburgh. The average rate for the country at large is estimated at 32 per cent, compared with 30 per cent in the previous week.

Apathy rules in the scrap trade, and pig iron prices are holding at recent levels in most markets. Sheets and strips, as well as bars, plates and shapes, are well maintained at current quotations on such business as is now coming out. Bolts and nuts and cast iron pipe, however continue to be subject to rather widespread concessions.

The Iron Age composite prices are unchanged, pig iron at $15.50 a ton, steel scrap at $9.25 a ton and finished steel at 2.116 cents a lb.

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

Marketing of the products produced in the vicinity as well as such foodstuffs as may have been brought in from other points was first inaugurated in this city in May, 1846. There were many who participated in the market and such was its success that during the summer of the same year, the first market house of the town was constructed. It was of brick and was 70 by 30 feet in size. It stood near the center of the Public Square or diamond as it was then and is now known. Its west end was on a line with the east side of Jefferson street. The market days were Wednesday and Thursdays and this market house served this community for many years. Today we have the farmers market on South Mill street, which probably has some resemblance to the market house that first served this community.

Hereabouts observation of the meteoric showers was hampered by the prevalence of the kind of showers with which we are more familiar.—The Lowell Evening Leader

NEVER DRY · NEVER DUSTY · NEVER PARCHED

—they're FRESH!

IF you are not yet a Camel smoker you have a grand treat in store when first you enjoy the benefits of the Humidor Pack.

The three things in a cigarette that can make it sting the tongue and unkindly burn the throat are safely eliminated from Camels.

There are no harsh parched-dry tobaccos—the fine Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos of which Camels are blended require no overheating to make them palatable.

There is no peppery dust to irritate the throat—that's whisked away by a special vacuum-cleaning process.

There is no staleness nor loss of fragrance—made fine, Camels are kept fine wherever you buy them, thanks to the Humidor Pack.

This scientific germ-safe wrapping—not plain ordinary Cellophane, but moisture-proof Cellophane which costs nearly twice as much—seals in all the aroma and freshness, seals it so tightly that wet weather cannot make Camels damp, nor drought weather make them dry.

If you want to know what that means in throat-friendliness and smoking-pleasure, try Camels for just one day, then leave them—if you can.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Two Mothers Dissent With Child Expert

Dr. Myers Asks Critics To Re-Read Article Referred To

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

"Dear Dr. Myers: I read your reply to the mother of the nervous high-strung child. I cannot agree with either of you about the treatment of this child.

"I am grown, but still remember distinctly, as though but yesterday, the time I was forced out of my sleeping room and put in with my sister. I often wonder whether some people really had a childhood or whether they were ushered into this world fully grown, that they treat children with such cold-blooded heartlessness.

"I was like this child the lady speaks of. I would lie for hours while others slept, wide awake, with fingers tightly clasped to keep my finger nails from pulling out of the roots, which I, in my nervous excitement, imagined was trying to happen to me, unless I held them tightly on.....Sometimes about 2 a. m., when I could stand the torture no more, I crept quietly out of my bed and into my mother's and father's room and whispered to my mother, 'I can't sleep,' and, joy of joys, she always took me in and I was fast asleep.....If I should ever have care of a child I will have it understand that in my room it will find sympathy and welcome, even if it comes at midnight."

And another letter reads:

"Dear Dr. Myers: Each day I read your articles to gain help in rearing my three young children. Generally they are more or less helpful, and as a rule you are fair to the child; but the enclosed article" (the one referred to above) "filled me with dismay....

"This parents description of the baby's emotional make-up is a fine description of myself as a child. I could not bear to sleep alone—even as a young woman. Even now I feel better if I am sleeping near someone....but I might say of my own three children that they sleep alone, but with a dim light burning in the bathroom....

"And so, when you say that jealousy is one factor in this little girl's trouble, permit me to say that I consider you entirely wrong in this case and the treatment you suggest brutal to a child of such delicate mechanism. Really, it is appalling to me! Had my mother done that to me, I firmly believe she would have wrecked my nervous system completely....A mother who has such a child cannot expect an easy time; nor always a night of unbroken rest. While she may need it—she cannot have it.....

"Dr. Myers, I feel that no matter how well we are trained in psychology, we cannot be too careful in dealing with children and their emotions. After all, we cannot read their minds and they cannot explain their feelings to us....So when you ask this parent to let this child cry, you may be doing both an irreparable wrong. I know you try to be fair; so your letter amazed me and this is my reaction to it."

Answer: I wish these two honest critics would go back and re-read the article to which they refer. If I could sit down and talk with them I think I could show them that we are not nearly so far apart in points of view as they think we are. Anyway, I am deeply grateful for their criticism and hope to profit from it. May I have more adverse criticisms!

EDITOR'S NOTE: Two pamphlets by Dr. Myers may be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Garry C. Myers, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Punishments and Rewards" and "Fear."

Star Lore

TRACING THE POINT IN THE SKY WHERE SPRING BEGINS
By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

It is always interesting to take a look at the Square of Pegasus when it is climbing the eastern sky in late August and early September, and let the eye connect up the east side of the Square with the North Star, for by extending an imaginary line from the North Star through Pegasus at its east side, and then continuing the line southward as much further as the width of the Square, the eye will be resting on the spot where the point of Aries is located on the celestial equator, and of course the place where our spring of the northern hemisphere begins with the entering of the sun into the sign Aries March 21.

Hoover Appoints Gifford Head Of Federal Relief

Hoover Administration Will Render Aid To Vast Army Of Jobless This Winter

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. — As was the case last winter, the Hoover administration will move again this year to render aid to the army of jobless through national, state and local relief agencies.

"Public," or Federal, authorities will "cooperate", and once more President Hoover has appointed a personal representative to "mobilize" on a countrywide scale the work of the private and local organizations in extending succor to the unemployed.

Walter S. Gifford, President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, will direct this year's coordination of relief for the operation with the available branch-President. He will set up headquarters in Washington and, in cooperation with the available branches of the Federal Government will undertake a cohesive and smooth-running organization.

It was made clear, however, in a White House statement that such agencies as the American Red Cross, State, County and municipal relief bodies and the like "will have charge of the activities arising out of unemployment." Gifford was given carte blanche by the President to "set up and direct" the national headquarters as he saw fit, but it was emphasized that this super-organization was to "reinforce" the existing organizations "which will have responsibility" for handling this winter's breadlines.

Will Fight Dole

In establishing a Federal coordinating body for a second consecutive year, Mr. Hoover generally was accepted as having served final notice he will fight the Federal Unemployment dole in any form uncompromisingly. His utterances in the past have been quite definitely against use of treasury funds to furnish those out of work with food and shelter.

Quaint Town Aims To Keep Its Quaintness

(International News Service)

ELSAH, Ill., Aug. 20.—In a day in which many towns are doing their best to develop the appearance of an "up-and-coming" modern town, this little hamlet, founded by early settlers nearly one hundred years ago, is doing its best to keep anything from destroying its picturesque beauty.

Feeling that the stone dwellings of the community represent a type of architecture now seldom seen in this country, officials of Principia College, a $3,500,000 institution which is being erected on the outskirts of the town, are co-operating in averting the marring of the architectural harmony of the village through the influx of new establishments.

The architect who is planning the erection of the institution is designing the buildings not unlike the surrounding buildings of the little town, and his advice has been offered to residents who are planning new structures.

Even filling stations, the erection of which were unforesen by the founders of the hamlet, are being constructed to harmonize with the quaint vine-covered stone structures of the village.

Moore Makes Some Political Predictions

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Ruth E. Moore, Washington political "Prognosticator," has to hope for a democratic victory in the presidential election of 1932 with John J. Raskob as chairman of the national committee.

Miss Moore, who achieved fame for her prediction of the Hoover victory in 1928, said:

"The democrats stand no chance of winning the presidency unless they remove Raskob as chairman."

While not explaining the basis of her reasoning, she also announced the end for Governor Roosevelt.

"He started his presidential campaign too soon, and unless Al Smith endorses him, his chances are gone," she declared.

Moreover, she predicts that Dwight Morrow will be the Republican presidential nominee, unless Hoover comes out in favor of light wines and beer.

"One thing more," she said. "You can quote me as saying Samuel Seabury will be your next Governor. That is, if Roosevelt continues his Presidential aspirations."

Shooting of Senator Roy T. Yates of New Jersey in New York Love-Nest Causes Political Rumpus on Eve of Gubernatorial Election

Investigation into the mysterious shooting of State Senator Roy T. Yates, of New Jersey, in the New York apartment of Ruth Jayne Cranmer, has resulted in disclosures that may have an important bearing on the coming gubernatorial election. A search into the affairs of Miss Cranmer, who is held in connection with the shooting, revealed that she was on the State payroll, the nature of her labors stated as being with the New Jersey Pension Survey Commission, of which Senator Yates is chairman. It also came to light that Miss Cranmer was in possession of railroad passes of the type usually issued to State employes. Governor Morgan F. Larson has ordered an inquiry, but it is felt that at this time, when New Jersey is on the eve of electing a new Governor, such an inquiry will only cause embarrassment to the Republican Party, of which Governor Larson and Yates are members. The candidates for gubernatorial honors are David Baird, Jr., Republican, and A. Harry Moore, Democrat and former Governor.

Happy Triangular Romance

One of the strangest romances of the world will culminate soon when June Ramsay (left), once the toast of Broadway, marries her former husband's best friend—the friend who was best man at her wedding. And, just to make it a bit more bizarre, the wedding will take place aboard the former husband's yacht, the Alegria, with the former mate acting as best man. June Ramsay, theatrical star of 18 years ago, wed Adolph Erdmann (right), wealthy coal merchant, nearly two decades ago. The bridegroom-to-be, who was best man for June and Adolph, is Sabino de Barreneschea Maraschio, (lower left), millionaire sugar planter of Havana.

Safety in Numbers, Gloria?

Gloria Swanson, star of the films, evidently believes there is safety in numbers. Here she is in New York, shortly after her return from Europe, being well escorted to Hollywood by Michael Farmer (right), millionaire sportsman, who, 'tis rumored, will be the actress' next husband; and Clifton Webb (left), well-known musical comedy comedian. Gloria has not yet received a final decree of divorce from the Marquis de la Falaise.

Girl Scouts Get Fine Training While In Camp

Counselor Instructors Are Of The Highest Educational Type

GAIN KNOWLEDGE THAT IS USEFUL

Girl Scouts attending the annual camp at Camp John M. Phillips on the Slippery Rock this year, as in former years, are receiving instruction each day that is helpful and educational and not only do they receive this instruction, but it is being imparted to them by persons who are thoroughly familiar with the subject in which they instruct the girls and have been or are being trained in educational work along the lines in which they are instructing the girls. In fact many of the counselor instructors of the present camp are teachers in schools at various places and are college graduates.

In addition to the healthful outdoor life that the girls are enjoying, they are being instructed in woodcraft, handcraft, swimming, nature study and dramatics. Some excellent work has been done by the many girls this year under the leadership of the counselor instructors in attendance at the camp.

The list of counselor instructors includes Miss Alice Schuster of Pittsburgh, who is in ch[illegible] of the Never Never Land unit. [illegible] is a graduate of the H. C. Fri[illegible] Normal Training school of Pitts[illegible]rgh, a teacher of physical education in the Pittsburgh schools and the leader of the Girl Scout troop in Pittsburgh.

Many College Girls.

Miss Elva Lucas of Fairmont City, Pa., is a graduate of Clarion State Teachers college. She is instructor in nature work at the camp. Miss Peg Demarest of Pittsburgh is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh in physical education. She has worked in the Kaufman center in Girl Scout work. She has been assistant instructor in swimming at the camp this year.

Miss Kathleen Wettich of this city has been a counselor for some years and is in charge of St. Mary's parish troop of Girl Scouts. She is in charge of the Sherwood Forest unit this year and the girls of the unit have been making great progress under her supervision.

Miss Frances Myers of Portersville is a graduate of Slippery Rock State Teachers college and is captain of the Girl Scout troop at Thaddeus Stevens school. She is instructing the girls in nature study work.

Miss Lucille Alexander of Lorain, O., is a student at the Cleveland School of Art and has charge of the handcraft work of the camp, that being along the lines of her work in school.

Miss Leona Sankey of this city is a graduate of the Slippery Rock State Teachers college and an instructor in Thaddeus Stevens school. She is in charge of the dramatics of the camp, which are proving one of the big features of the same.

Miss Dorothy Tomb of Ellwood City is a graduate of Geneva college. She is in charge of the Knights unit. She is part time director of the Girl Scout work in Ellwood City.

Miss Alice Eibeck, head swimming counselor, is a student at the University of Pittsburgh in the department of physical education. She has marked ability as a swimming instructor.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Myers of Sharon is in the scout work at that place and is a graduate of Slippery Rock State Teachers college. She has been assisting in the swimming instruction.

Accomplished Musician.

Miss Frances Andrews of Scranton, Pa., is a college graduate and has charge of the Pioneer unit which includes the older girls, many of whom will become counselors and leaders in Girl Scout work. She is an accomplished musician and is the author of many of the unit songs used at camp this year.

Miss Dorothy Reed of Trafford, Pa., is a graduate of Wooster college and a teacher in the schools of Trafford. She is instructing along nature lines at the camp. Miss Elizabeth Reis, scout commissioner for the district, is taking an active part in the instruction of the girls in nature work. Mrs. H. K. Bell graduate nurse and a student of Westminster college, is in charge of the nursing work at the camp.

Supervising the entire camp, both in matters of instruction and regulation of the life of the girls is Miss Nance Pugh, Girl Scout director for this district. The camp, which is highly successful, is the direct result of her energetic efforts and supervisory work, together with those local counselors, many of whom are very active in the organization and maintenance of the work in the district as well as the camp.

The machine generates 300,000 volts. With this apparatus, staff members of the hospital declare that it is possible to reach any part of the human body as it allows a large percentage of penetration. It will be used in treatment of cancer, tumor, Hodgkins disease and other disorders.

The only real mystery in most of these mystery novels is how the authors persuade the publishers to do it.

Observations In 7th Ward

Do you know that it has been almost 100 years since Mahoningtown was laid out? According to records it was in 1836.

Has anything been done about fixing up Valley View cemetery? At a meeting of members, officers and people interested in the Valley View Cemetery Association, held some time ago, plans for doing so were discussed and it was hoped to have the cemetery fences and chapel repaired.

Two see-saws have been fixed up in an Ashland avenue yard and the youngsters keep them moving.

A small but attractive garden is that at the rear of the Kubinsky home on North Liberty street. It is not a colorful garden but it's abundant green foliage is very pretty.

One week from Sunday local pastors who are vacationing now will be back in the pulpits.

An automobile passed down Liberty street Wednesday afternoon decked out in Havana, Cuba license plates. The car attracted considerable attention.

Several small boys have been making a habit of hopping on the rear of trolley cars going up and down North Cedar street. The practice will end disastrously for someone and should be stopped.

Have You Athlete's Foot!

Look at your feet tonight and especially under and between toes—they may be infected with the vegetable parasite known to science as Tinea Trichophyton—let us hope they are not.

When this parasite first attacks, there is an eruption followed by intense itching and burning and if not caught in time the disease usually spreads along the sole and sides of the foot—it may spread to other parts of the body.

CAUTION: The disease is infectious—someone in your own home may have it—(find out tonight). Beware of bath-mats, either at home or in hotels—use a newspaper—it's safer.

TREATMENT: Apply Moone's Emerald Oil generously, not only under and between the toes but over the bottom and sides of foot. This powerful oil soothes and penetrates—stops the itching at once and checks the growth of the germs.

Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., and pharmacists everywhere in America dispense Emerald Oil—an 85 cent bottle that lasts 2 weeks is guaranteed to drive away every symptom of Athlete's Foot or money back.

Kit Carson—34. Fremont Returns To California

THE KILLING OF THREE OF THEIR COMRADES IN THAT MURDEROUS NIGHT RAID CALLED TO FREMONT'S MEN FOR VENGEANCE. IN THE MORNING KIT CARSON PICKED UP THE TRAIL OF THE MARAUDERS AND, LEAVING FREMONT, GILLESPIE AND THREE OTHERS TO BURY THE VICTIMS, LED THE REST OF THE PARTY ALONG THE FAINT TRACK TO THE KLAMATH VILLAGE.

THE SCOUTS ATTACKED FIERCELY. TAKEN COMPLETELY BY SURPRISE, THE INDIANS FLED HOWLING IN TERROR, THE WHITE MEN PICKING OFF THE BUCKS AS THEY RAN. WHEN THE SHOOTING CEASED, KIT STUCK A FEW MORE BRASS STUDS IN THE STOCK OF HIS HAWKINS RIFLE, WHICH WAS THE WAY HE KEPT TALLY OF THE FOES HE HAD

KILLED, INSTEAD OF CUTTING NOTCHES ON THE WEAPON. AFTER THIS STERN ACT OF VENGEANCE CARSON REJOINED FRÉMONT. HE FOUND THE EXPLORER PREPARING TO RETRACE HIS STEPS TO CALIFORNIA, GILLESPIE HAVING BROUGHT WORD THAT IT WAS THE GOVERNMENT'S INTENTION TO SEIZE THAT PROVINCE IN

CASE OF WAR WITH MEXICO. FREMONT HAD RECEIVED NO DETAILED INSTRUCTIONS, BUT RESOLVED TO UNDERTAKE THE CONQUEST OF CALIFORNIA ON HIS OWN INITIATIVE. WITH ONLY HIS LITTLE BAND OF EXPLORERS, HE LEFT OREGON AND HASTENED SOUTHWARD.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Plans are under way for another carnival of boxing one week from next Monday night. According to the fans the last show was filled with action and they're rarin' to go to the next Knock'em-over.

Billy Petrolle and Jimmy McLarin are scheduled to toss gloves in another battle tonight at New York. Each holds a victory. Twenty thousand fans are expected to see the battle.

Lefty Grove chalked up his sixteenth consecutive victory when he hurled down the White Sox and the Athletics won four to two. In accomplishing this he tied the mark set in 1912 by Smokey Joe Wood of the Red Sox.

The grapevine circuit reports that Johnny Kilbane is working out every day with his proteges. It wouldn't be surprising to hear of Johnny announcing an attempted comeback such as Benny Leonard made recently.

Louie Fornicari, manager of Primo Ubaldi was in the city last night and hurled a challenge to all the light-heavies and heavyweights in this vicinity. Ubaldi has been going good since he arrived from Rome.

Grove Wins His Twenty-Fifth

Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove, Annexes His Sixteenth Straight Victory

HOPES TO BREAK EXISTING RECORDS

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—A whole flock of adjectives was unloosed in every city, village and farm today to tell about Lefty Grove's winning of 16 games in a row.

Grove, in holding the White Sox to seven hits to give the Athletics a 4 to 2 success, brought his seasonal victories to 25. His newest decision gave him a tie with the 1912 mark of Joe Wood and Walter Johnson, which is the American League record.

The great New York Giants were one run behind, had three men on and then lo and behold! Tony Cuccinello decided it was time to make a bad peg. He did and the ninth inning error gave New York a 6 to 5 advantage over the Cincy Reds. The Giants regained second place through the faux pas.

Cy Moore Loses

Cy Moore has been a Brooklyn pitcher three years and during that time hurled two games. So when he pitched his third game yesterday he didn't do so badly, allowing only five hits, although in the end the Chicago's Cubs prevailed, 4 to 1. In the tea time game some fancy hitting by Gordon Slade assisted Dazzy Vance to a 5 to 3 sinking of the Chicagoans.

Ray Benge tamed the St. Louis Cardinals with eight hits, the Phillies winning the opener 3 to 2, but the champions took the finale 8 to 4 behind six hit pitching or Hallahan.

The weary Washington Senators fell flat twice before the Cleveland Indians 10 to 5 and 10 to 8. Earl Averill got his homers No. 25 and 26. Connally and Hudlin were the winning men on the mound.

Stewart kept the yankees' hits apart and two doubles and a homer by Ralph Kress scored a 7 to 3 win for the St. Louis Browns over New York.

Deroit bagged 15 hits against 12 for Boston but the Red Sox snatched it, 9 to 8. Weak hurling by Sullivan in the first inning and five Detroit errors tripped the Tigers.

Malizias Top W. Side Tigers

In an exciting contest played on the Lee avenue field on Wednesday night the Malizia nine nosed out the West Side Tigers. The score was 2-1.

Pascarella and W. Soho, with two his apiece, were the feature hitters for the Malizias, while Jackson was the best for the Tigers. Fiorelli and McIntyre, the opposing pitchers, limited their opponents to six hits.

Dempsey Wins By Quick Knockout

Former Champion Knocks Out Jack Beasley, California, In Two Rounds

(International News Service)

RENO, Nev., Aug. 20. — Jack Dempsey may never again be heavyweight champion of the world, but it would be hard to convince Reno of that today.

For, returning to the ring after an absence of four years, hampered by "pillowcases" in the shape of 16-ounce gloves, the manassa mauler displayed enough of the old time form that made him famous to knock out Jack Beasley, Oakland, Cal., heavyweight, in the second round of their scheduled four round exhibition bout here last night.

Beasley made two previous trips to the floor in the round. Staying down for counts of 8 and 9, before he ran into the ex-champion's left which sent the elevator down for the third time to stay.

In the first round Beasley had been the aggressor, landing several hard punches as Dempsey boxed cautiously, apparently feeling out his opponent.

The mauler weighed 199 when he entered the ring.

When Tony Fuente, Mexican heavyweight, who was also scheduled to go two rounds with the ex-champion, failed to show up, assertedly because of two fractured ribs, Beasley, after a short rest period, gamely returned to box a third round with Dempsey.

Sixteen hundred fans viewed the performance, jamming the arena to capacity. More than 5,000 were turned away, it was estimated.

McLarnin-Petrolle To Battle Tonight

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The third and deciding chapter of the fistic vendetta between Jimmy McLarnin and Billy Petrolle, two uncrowned champions of the ring, will be unfolded tonight at Yankee stadium, weather permitting. The distance is ten rounds.

If rain, predicted by the weather bureau, washes out the fight, it will be held tomorrow night.

Although Petrolle gave the Irishman the licking of his life in their first meeting here last November, Smiling Jimmy, as usual, will go into the ring the favorite. The odds are 6 to 5. Changing from slugger to boxer, "Baby-Face" used his left hand so effectively in their second tilt that he completely sidetracked the Fargo Express, and the sharps figure he will do it again.

Petrolle Favorite.

Petrolle, however, has the following four points in his favor:

1. Billy is in fine shape. He had not recovered from a touch of influenza last time out when he performed sluggishly. The old "zip" was missing, and he was off form in timing his blows.

2. Subsequently Petrolle replenished his prestige and morale by belting out Justo Suarez, the hard-hitting South American, who had never lost a bout previously.

3. McLarnin's notoriously fragile hands may crack up on Petrolle's skull when Billy bobs, weaves and comes in low.

4. Petrolle, when made the underdog in the betting, almost invariably upsets the dope.

In the final analysis, however, McLarnin should prove to be too smart for the game Fargo veteran. The versatile Irishman is a marvel at adapting himself to situations. If he makes a cagy fight and is not lured into slugging by the taunts of Jack Hurley, Petrolle's manager, that he is afraid to mix it, Jimmy should win the decision by a close margin. At his training camp last week he appeared unbeatable.

Flats To Meet West Pittsburg

One of the best contests of the season is expected to take place tonight on the Clifton Flats field when the West Pittsburgh nine of the Lawrence County league opposes the Clifton Flats team at 6:15 o'clock.

Westminster To Fence Gridiron

Combined Efforts Of Trustees, Alumni And Athletic Council Responsible

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Aug. 20.—Westminster College athletic officials announced yesterday that due to the combined efforts of the board of trustees, alumni association, and athletic council, the Titan football field will be fenced in this fall and the playing field surface improved.

A six-foot wire fence will be placed around the gridiron. Iron posts eight foot high will be set in cement to hold the fencing. The gate will face Market street on the southwest side of the field. On top of the six-foot fence will be barbed-wire protection.

The move to get the Westminster field enclosed was started by Dr. S. E. Calhoun, president of the alumni association. Increased seating facilities for spectators are also planned by athletic officials.

Materials for the fencing have been ordered, and work will start on the field as soon as the wire and posts arrive. The fence will be up in time for the opening of the football training camp on September 1. In addition to providing larger gate receipts, the fence will be useful for excluding spectators during secret practice.

Shenango Pottery Will Play Friday

The West Pittsburg-Shenango Pottery game scheduled in the Lawrence County League last night was postponed on account of rain. The game will be played at West Piitsburg on Friday night. The umpires are asked to take notice of this game.

You can guess the size of the town if you know how many people watch a widow spend her life insurance.

Every time your motor turns over it costs you money . . . in gas and oil, wear and tear. With Hupmobile's Free-Wheeling, 1000 engine revolutions take you as far as 1500 used to. That's why Free-Wheeling is a long step toward free riding!

"We believe the Hupmobile to be the best car of its class in the world"

Right after the war you got about TWO tire miles for one cent. Today you get nearer THIRTY

Why buy a Second-Choice Tire when First-Choice costs no more?

You expect bargains these days in everything you buy, but in almost no other article can you find such extraordinary value as in a Goodyear Tire.

Prices are the lowest in the history of the automobile — but, more than that, quality is the highest.

As an example, in 1918 the price of a 30 x 3½ cord (the commonest size) was $41.65. Now, a Goodyear balloon for the same make of car (size 28 x 4.75-19) sells for $8.55.

That's only about a fifth of the price; and it's putting it modestly to say that today's Goodyears will give three times the mileage.

Right after the war you got about two tire miles for a cent. Today you get nearer thirty for a cent from Goodyears.

And that's not saying a word about the incomparably greater comfort and style and safety of the new standard All-Weather Tread Tire as Goodyear builds it now!

Isn't it short-sighted to risk delays and danger on threadbare tires when the first-choice tire of the world can be bought at today's record-breaking low prices?

Of course it is! And when you buy new tires let your common sense answer the question, "Why buy a second-choice tire, when first-choice costs no more?"

NEW YORK STOCKS

Oils Continue Rise Through Merger News

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Under the lead of the Oils and Public Utility stocks moved irregularly up the price scale in the early trading today. Sinclair forged ahead to 12¾ in anticipation of the prompt completion of its billion-dollar merger with Prairie, Tidewater and Rio Grande. Overnight gains of a point or less were recorded in about a dozen of the active Utility stocks, with Consolidated Gas leading the upturn.

Electric Power, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, American Waterworks and a few other active Utilities forged ahead 1½ points in the maximum. Industrial Alcohol sold up 2 points. New York Central was a leader in the Rail group, advancing 1⅜ to 71⅜, while Atchison sold about a point higher. United States Steel at 91⅛ showed a gain of 1⅝ over Wednesday's final price. Standard Oil of New Jersey moved up fractionally to a new high at 42½, completing a 6-point rise since last Thursday. Loews, at the head of the Amusements, advanced a point to 48⅞.

In no section of the market was trading as brisk as in the last few days, but prices were well maintained. After dipping a point or two in the first period, Cotton rallied about 50 cents a bale, and Wheat futures were also steady.

NONSENSE

SPYING ON SPORTS

BY WILLIAM RITT

Central Press Sports Editor

My Mutual Consent

To British gals,
The best of gals,
In battling for a tennis crown
Have turned the net rules upside down.
They did not choose
To win or lose!
The spectators might feel quite sore
But who are THEY to worry o'er?

Sport fans of the United States have viewed hundreds of fights stopped by kindly referees, thousands of ball games interrupted by rain and many grappling contests halted in mid-grip by the clock, but they were totally unprepared for the spectacle of an important tennis match coming to a sudden close—by mutual consent of the players.

That's a brand new one for the Yankee sport spectator to ponder over, and he has two British net stars to thank for introducing what they said was an old European custom to these shores.

The girls—Mrs. Elsie Pittman and Miss Joan Ridley—were deadlocked at the end of the second set of their play in the finals of the eastern championship at Rye, N. Y., when both suddenly dashed to the net, shook hands, and walked off the court.

"It's over," they told astonished officials. "We've decided not to play it out. Put both our names on the trophy. This-happens often in Europe, so it's quite all right."

The New—to Americans—stunt appears to have tremendous possibilities if introduced into other sports. Athletes laboring in other channels of sport would do well to study it. It may save them a great deal of unnecessary effort.

For instance, we can visualize the A's and the Cards, at the conclusion of the fourth game of the next world series, going into a huddle. Players share in receipts of ony the first four contests. From then on the battle is to see who gets the biggest hunk of that share. Therefore the A's and Cards may come out of their huddle with the announcement "By mutual consent we'll split the world series honors. Goodbye please."

Or—we may see—the opponents in the next heavyweight championship bout jumping from their stools just before the first bell rings, with the statement: "By mutual consent we will share the title. Hope you enjoyed the evening. Kindly do not crowd in the aisles as you depart."

No long, grueling battle in the hot sun, no senseless landing and receiving blows. Boy, this mutual consent business is the find of the year!

However, the tennis tournament committee sitting at Rye have injected an Ethiopian into the kindling supply. "No" they said, in a gentle, well-modulated and dignified voice, but nevertheless, "No." Neither Mrs. Pittman or Miss Ridley will be awarded the title. There just won't be any champion.

So, on a second thought, maybe the boys will continue to play out the world series or fight the title fights out to a definite conclusion, and thus continue to give their customers their money's worth.

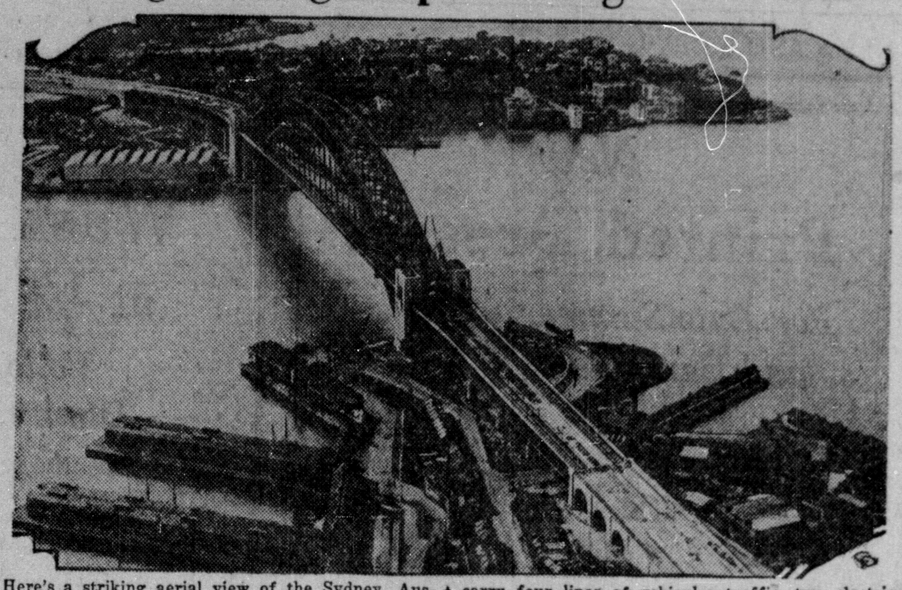
Italy's Speed Ace

Lieut. Col. Mario de Barnardi, Italian Air Force speed ace, is shown handing New York and America a great big smile as he arrives in this country aboard the S. S. Saturnia to compete in the National Air Races starting at Cleveland, Aug. 23.

Latest Prodigy

Dr. Linus Pauling, of the California Institute of Technology, who, although only 30 years old, has already published nearly 50 researches in pure science. He has just been awarded the Langmuir prize of the American Chemical Society as the outstanding young chemist of the nation.

Longest Single Span Bridge in World



Here's a striking aerial view of the Sydney, Australia, harbor bridge, which has been seven years in construction at a cost of nearly $40,000,000. As the longest single span bridge in the world, it will carry four lines of vehicular traffic, two electric train tracks and two street car tracks, as well as two foot-bridges for pedestrians only. One million passengers will cross the bridge daily, it is estimated.

Congrats, Elinor

Elinor Smith, famed aviatrix of New York, and holder of many air records, is inviting you to have a piece of her delicious birthday cake on her twentieth anniversary. Many more years of happy landings were wished for her by noted fliers all over the world

Books to Boots

A graduate of the University of Illinois, this jockey, W. Magner, traded his degree for boots and saddles and a racing mount on the big-time tracks of the country. From urging rooters on to greater lung explosions while "Red" Grange was playing for the Illini, Magner has turned to piloting fleet nags around tracks in faster time.

Hello, Germany, How Goes It?

With characteristic wisecracks, Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, voiced a radio "Hello" to Germany when he landed at Bremen from the S. S. Bremen to be given the welcoming hand by Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion of the world. Debonair, immaculate Jimmy is shown addressing the German people through the "mike." Next to Mayor Walker is Schmeling, next a ship's officer and right, Joe Jacobs, Max's manager.

Deportation Next

Charles Ponzi, king of the "get-rich-quick" boys, is slated for deportation to Italy as soon as he is paroled from the Massachusetts State prison, probably in October. The Federal Department of Labor, in announcing Ponzi's enforced change of residence, stated a warrant of deportation was now facing the "financial wizard" and would be served immediately after he was paroled.

Urges Debt Change

A call for the revision of the whole system of war reparations and debts as essential to the restoration of German and world economic prosperity has been sounded by the international bankers' committee, headed by Albert H. Wiggin (above), of New York, deliberating at Basel, Switzerland.

Wheat has been grown in in Alaska and it is altogether possible to grow enough to take care of that territory.

For a man seldom thinks with more earnestness of anything than he does of his dinner.—Samuel Johnson.

Clue to Nungesser's Fate

John Gaucher (left) and L. V. Allers are shown reading the note they found in a Cognac bottle off Fire Island, near New York. The note, reproduced below, is believed to be from C. M. Nungesser and Maj. Francois Coli, the intrepid French fliers who took off from Paris on May 8, 1927, on a non-stop flight to New York. They were never heard of again. Translated from the French the note reads: "Sinking at this moment in Labrador." It bears a signature believed to be that of Coli.

White House Is Very Silent On New Controversy

Governor Roosevelt Kicks Up Argument With President Hoover

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—White House attaches adopted a policy of tight-lipped silence today with respect to the controversy inspired by President Hoover's failure to answer a letter from Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt (D) of New Yrok, concerning St. Lawrence waterway negotiation.

"There is no comment to make of any nature," repeatedly declared Theodore G. Joslin, the secretary in charge of press liaison, when questioned about various developments.

This attitude was maintained in the face of dispatches from Albany indicating that Roosevelt regarded a communication from Acting Secretary of State Castle which began, "Dear Frank," as personal and unofficial and not constituting a reply to his letter to the president. Also, there was "no comment" on widely printed articles by political writers interpreting Mr. Hoover's failure to reply as a "snub" to Roosevelt in view of his possible ascendency to the Democratic presidential nomination next year.

Letter Made Public.

Gov. Roosevelt meanwhile had made public his letter to the president. It had enclosed a note from Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the New York state power authority stating it was understood the American and Canadian governments were negotiating to appoint a commission to handle the waterway project, and suggesting that New York's special interest entitled her to presentation theron. This letter and enclosure was the one the White House denied for almost a week had been received, and which Castle finally answered, saying no negotiations were under way.

The White House consistently has declined to discuss the St. Lawrence waterway negotiations with the press.

MY NEW YORK

BY JAMES ASWELL

Central Press

AT SEA—Ship sailing may be gay but they are also overtoned with heavy drama. After all, on a train you can change your mind: you can pull the bell-cord and get off if you simply must. But a great liner slips down the bay and there you are: you have paid your money and taken your choice, finally and irrevocably. In common with many I share an awe of all final and irrevocable things.

I have never decided whether it is more exciting to sail oneself or bid a voyager adieu at the dock. Certainly when the Leviathan gurgled gradually away from the W. 46th St. pier a few hours ago the crowd left behind showed all the old giddy emotion. They waved with frantic ecstasy at the moment of parting, as they will wave tomorrow and the day after. There is a ship leaving New York it develops, on an average of once every forty minutes.

One tug draped in flags and streamers and crowded with singing and waving folk, followed us several miles out. This turned out to be a farewell party to Mr. John T. Ryan—the president, I think, of the Longshoremen's Union. Which is the current method of defeating as it were that bleak, overwhelming zero moment when the gangplanks lift and there is no alternative to severance.

This cabin is littered with the shambles of festivity. Everyone is elaborately leisurely now, when briefly ago the boat was topsy-turvy with rush. Bob Ripley, the "Believe It Or Not" boy, was in to bid good-by. Timid and polite, as always he had to be shoved off to keep a picture-taking date with Commodore Randall. He left conveyed by two photographers who were in a twitter over the twelve-minute margin they had to sailing time.

Two hastily scrawled notes were on the bureau from Harry Hershfield. He had discovered several acquaintances in the tourist cabin quarters and was down bon-voyaging them. He was going to drop off a second in Suite A and do the honors for Phil Baker, the accordionist extraordinary, also aboard. He would be back. He came presently, and we hopped above decks to pose —Harry exuberant and genial, as ever, moving with the manner of a dapper gentleman on roller skates.

SHIPMATES

People who read most, curiously enough, appear to carry the fewest books with them on ocean voyages. Ann Watkins, the literary agent, is aboard and began snooping about the ship's library early in the afternoon of sailing day. She must read tons of manuscript a year and so brought nothing with her. She refused even to scan the passenger list. However, now she is avid for a book.

Perhaps it is impossible for anyone really to take a vacation. Old habits and enthusiasms are less easy to shake off than office hours and routine responsibilities. Allen Cleaton, my bunkmate, who never goes on a week end business journey without a suitcase full of books, amazed me by appearing unburdened by any literature except a copy of "So You're Going to Germany and Austria"—which threatened, with its vapid and self-conscious style, to destroy all interest in the places he hoped to visit and had to be given to the steward.

PETER PAN OF THE PRESS

Allen, by the way, is the youngest managing editor of a big newspaper in America—the Richmond Times-Dispatch. He will boil if he ever discovers I have mentioned that fact. It is his theory that young men of ability should put their ages ahead four or five years when they can get away with it. The device lessens dissatisfaction among older employes later on. He had been officially thirty now ever since he left the University of Virginia. If he is made an editor he will take on another five years, he says.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce is not with us, contrary to printed reports published in New York and ship. The assistant purser declared that if she was aboard, under another name, she must be wearing a beard because he knew her well from many voyages.

STARRING A SIREN

Making movies with an amateur camera has more fascination than any hobby since stamp-album days. Already four rolls of films are exhausted, just by the take-off. Of course, after one of them had been run off I found I had forgotten to adjust the lens: and another wound around the wrong gadgets inside the thing. But there are two good ones —I hope—including a fascinating shot of the ship's funnels as the whistle blew, ground off with the erroneous impression there was a sound apparatus attached.

KENT JOINS ART CENTER

(International News Service)

KENT, Conn.—Kent will join Mystic and Old Lyme as an art center of note. Experimental exhibitions covering a number of years have led residents to rais money for an art building to house future exhibits and to contain work shops and a meeting hall. Layman and artists are joining in the movement, and the building is to be ready in another year. Photographs, stained glass and sculpture are to be added to the exhibit to be held here until well into September.

Loose talk from the back seat sometimes is as disastrous as a loose nut in the engine. But a tight nut at the wheel demands immediate attention.—The Rochester Times-Union.

Full Plies make ALLSTATE Better Tires
And ALLSTATE Has as Many Plies as Any Other
FIRST QUALITY TIRE

ALLSTATE tires have full ply construction. And ALLSTATE has as many plies as any other first-quality tire. Directly under the tread, in every ALLSTATE cross section, you will see another layer of fabric. Some people call it a ply. But Sears, Roebuck and Co., the National Better Business Bureau and the majority of good tire manufacturers call it a breaker strip. We are willing to accept the standard set for the tire industry.

ALLSTATE Tires are built with plies of cotton that has been carefully selected for elasticity — "super-elastic" we call it. Read the laboratory analysis on the left. See what experts learned to be the truth. See the ALLSTATE cross sections at any Sears store. Notice the double woven breaker strip in addition to the plies. Then make up your mind that the next time you buy tires you'll buy ALLSTATE—America's greatest tire value!
